THE NATIONAL BANK BILL.

[illegible] May 20.—The failure of the friends [illegible] bill for prevention of the further [illegible] to secure a hearing in the [illegible] has filled them with apprehensions [illegible] for them to secure favorable [illegible] measure the present session. The [illegible] proper, the bill which passed the [illegible] table with fifty odd bills [illegible] substitute for the Wilkins bill, [illegible] banking and currency com[illegible] is identical in its provisions with the [illegible] holds an equally unfavorable position [illegible] Neither can be reached [illegible] unanimous consent or by motion [illegible] rules, which can be made only [illegible] of each month. It is not at all [illegible] consent can be had to fix a [illegible] either bill, and the manner [illegible] banking and currency committee was [illegible] to-day almost convinces the [illegible] bill that it will not receive the necessary [illegible] to suspend rules. [illegible] MONEY.

[illegible] May 20.—The sub-committee of the [illegible] naval affairs today reported to [illegible] the full committee the bill providing an appropriation of $400,000 for the relief of the officers and crews of the United States sloop of war Cumberland and the U. S. steamer Monitor, engaged in action with the confederate steamer Merrimac in Hampton Roads, March 8 and 9, 1862. The report accompanying the bill says: "The claim to prize money must be rejected, but while this is true, evidence presented to the committee abundantly proves that the most conspicuous gallantry and devoted patriotism, as well as extraordinary services rendered by the officers and crews of these ships, which, in the opinion of your committee, entitles them to generous and grateful recognition by the country."

FRELINGHUYSEN FIGHTING THE CHINESE BILL.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—[Special.]—The foreign affairs committee of the house has received a letter from Secretary Frelinghuysen, in which he opposes the Chinese restriction bill. It is said a similar letter had been sent to the senate committee, and the general belief is that Frelinghuysen has written these letters for the purpose of influencing the senators against the measure. The bill is now in the senate committee. The attitude of Frelinghuysen toward the measure is such that there is no doubt about his motive in this letter to the committee.

FAVORABLE REPORT ORDERED.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The house committee on judiciary has ordered a favorable report on Delegate Luna's joint resolution providing that operation of all laws, acts and joint resolutions passed at the twenty-sixth session of the legislature of New Mexico, which began February 18 of this year, be suspended, pending an investigation now being made by the senate committee on territories. The committee is investigating charges that certain persons were illegally admitted to the legislature.

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICES IN ALASKA.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—[Special.]—Candidates for positions under the new government established for Alaska are as thick as peas in a pod. The principal candidates for governor are ex-State Senator Brown of Amador county, California, and ex-Governor Kincaid of Nevada. Oregon furnishes a candidate for the judgeship in the person of D. W. Welty of Portland, formerly a resident of California.

A MEMORIAL FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—[Special.]—Miller presented in the senate to-day a memorial of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce of San Francisco, praying congress to take necessary action to maintain the mail service between San Francisco and the British colonies of Australia and New Zealand.

THE SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The finance committee of the senate has postponed for one week consideration of the resolution for an investigation of the causes of the failures of New York banks, in order to obtain further information on the subject. It is thought a congressional investigation will not be ordered.

A PAIR OF DEFEATS.

How the Bankruptcy Bill and the Free Trade Art Measure Fared in the House.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—[Special.]—The house yesterday refused, by a vote of 137 to 113, to suspend the rules and fix a day for consideration of the bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy. While a majority of the house were in favor of this motion the necessary two thirds could not be obtained. It is considered that this vote practically ruins the chances for the enactment this session of a bankrupt law. It is possible that in the ordinary course of business it may be reached, but as the time for final adjournment approaches the prospect for securing the passage of the bill fades. As was expected, the democrats opposed fixing a day for consideration of the bill. Collins of Massachusetts, under instructions from the judiciary committee, offered a resolution fixing June 10 for consideration of the senate bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy. Willis of Kentucky and Holman of Indiana opposed the resolution. The former gave as his reason that the passage of the measure would increase the great army of officials throughout the country, and on the eve of the presidential election he did not think it was wise for the democrats to enact any law which would have that effect. Holman thought the measure was in the interest of the speculators and against the honest business men of the country. Collins of Massachusetts, Culberson of Texas and Adams of New York spoke in favor of the resolution.

THE FREE TRADE ART BILL.

The failure to secure consideration of the bankrupt bill was partially offset by the overwhelming defeat of the ways and means committee in its attempt to pass the bill to reduce the rates of duty on works of art to 10 per cent. advalorem. A duty of 30 per cent is at present imposed upon works of art of foreign artists, while the productions of American painters abroad are admitted free of duty. Hurd was the special champion of the bill, which proposed to reduce the rates of duties on costly pictures and other works of art, such as the very rich only are able to purchase. There has never been an occasion in the house of representatives when a bill of this character, endorsed as it was by a majority of the members of the ways and means committee and with the recommendation and approval of that committee, has been so signally defeated. It is a matter of great surprise to the friends of Judge Kelly that the great protectionist leader in the house should have voted for the passage of this bill. Hurd's motion to suspend the rules and pass the measure, although advocated by Kasson and other prominent protectionists, was defeated by a vote of 52 to 179. Dunn (Ark.) and Warner (Ohio) opposed the motion in short speeches.

OCHILTREE HAPPY.

Tom Ochiltree rushed out of the house into the main corridor, after the defeat of the art tariff bill, and grasping the arm of your correspondent, said: "We have beaten them out of their boots. I think I saw nearly every member of the house before this bill was taken up, and made a personal appeal to each to oppose it. You see the result. The bill was beaten by over a two-thirds majority. What a —— bill it was, anyhow! I have been abroad and seen those artists, and know how they act. They think Americans are a set of —— —— fools, only fit to pay $50,000 or $75,000 apiece for their pictures, and I am not sure but that they are right. They go to the houses of Americans in Paris and Rome, and eat their dinners and drink their wines, and go out and make fun of them. Here's this —— Meissonier, who insulted Mrs. Mackey by painting a caricature of her, for which he wanted $35,000. These are the class of fellows that this bill was intended to benefit, and I did all in my power to beat it," and the ready colonel dashed off to the telegraph office and sent a cable to Vanderbilt, announcing the defeat of the bill.

ENGLAND.

IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, May 20.—The extension of the franchise bill was considered by the commons to-day in committee of the whole. Randolph Churchill strongly disagreed with the amendment of Broderick, conservative, to exclude Ireland from the operations of the bill. The announcement was greeted with cheers by the liberals. Lord Randolph said that, although he objected to the bill strongly on account of its provisions, he thought the position taken by the government was statesmanlike. He had no fear of the result of enfranchising Irish agricultural laborers, and expressed a hope that the conservatives would not alienate the good opinion of the Irish by supporting Broderick's amendment.

Lord George Hamilton asked Churchill what he was really driving at. He said that if this was a statement of democratic toryism of the future, then he declined to follow such leadership. He contended that the bill was introduced to suit the exigencies of the liberals. Its application to Ireland would result in reopening the floodgates of agitation.

Broderick's amendment was rejected, 332 to 137. Churchill, Gorst, and other conservatives, and all the Parnellites, voted with the government. Northcote and many of his followers quitted the house before division was taken. Lord George Hamilton's attack on Churchill caused considerable excitement in the house.

VANDERBILT LANDS AND GOES TO LONDON.

LIVERPOOL, May 20.—Vanderbilt landed this afternoon and proceeded to London. Vanderbilt informed a newspaper representative that his information regarding the New York panic was incomplete, and therefore he was unprepared to comment upon it. He could only mature plans after his arrival in London. He could not say what he might have to do. He might possibly have to sell New York Central stock and buy other stocks. Vanderbilt stated that the object of his coming to England was to witness the Derby at Epsom. News he has received may necessitate an alteration of his plans, in which case he may return to America early.

STOCKS IN LONDON.

LONDON, May 20.—Americans were weak, except New York Central, which advanced ½. The rest declined ⅛ to 1½. Vanderbilt gives no clue of his intentions. Government 4's were in great demand and advanced ⅛, and 4½'s 1. Stocks were weak. Lackawanna went down to 107½, Pacific Mail 37½, Northern Pacific preferred 48½, Erie 15½, Missouri Pacific [illegible], Lake Shore 85½, Southern Pacific 70½.

LORD ST. LEONARD INDICTED.

LONDON, May 20.—The grand jury has indicted Lord St. Leonard for indecently assaulting a maid servant.

LIVERPOOL GRAIN MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, May 20.—Wheat, in moderate demand, prices unchanged. Corn, quiet but firm; new, 5s 2½d; old, 5s 4½d.

EGYPT.

THE REBELS TRIUMPHANT.

CAIRO, May 20.—The rebels have captured the magazine at [illegible], and virtually possess the town. The rebels are advancing upon Korosko, and a general alarm is created. El Mahdi's commissaries are welcomed everywhere. Admiral Hewitt arrived at Adowa April 26. The inhabitants refused to supply provisions, owing, it is believed, to the intrigue of the French and Greek consuls. King John sent an envoy to Hewitt, and promised to visit him soon.

Two hundred rebels bombarded Suakim yesterday for one hour. Two inhabitants were wounded. The rebels carried off 1000 sheep. The British troops landed, and the rebels were forced to retreat.

MAN-OF-WAR ARRIVED.

SUAKIM, May 20.—A French man-of-war has arrived here with presents for King John of Abyssinia.

FRANCE.

MEASURES INTRODUCED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

PARIS, May 20.—The French government has decided to introduce a bill in the chamber of deputies providing for the taxation of imported cereals and cattle.

The minister of marine has introduced a bill providing for a credit of 88,000,000 francs on account of a war in Tonquin, and a credit of 5,000,000 francs on account of the Madagascar expedition.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.
A Valuable Remedy for Gravel.

Dr. T. H. Newland, Jr., St. Louis Mo., says: "I have used it in diseases of the urinary organs, such as gravel, and particularly spermatorrhea, with very good results, and think it a very valuable remedy in those diseases."

The Financial Situation at New York—An Erie Bank President Absconds, and the Institution Fails—Notes.

Crop Prospects.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Crop reports received by the Farmers' Review up to May 19 are to the effect that the conditions for both wheat and corn are better, but the general situation is by no means reassuring as yet. Winter wheat is beginning to head, and spring wheat is growing well, with generally good prospects. In Illinois certain sections report improved indications for winter, but crops for the state at large promise to fall short of fair average. The spring wheat prospect in Iowa is fair, but corn planting is greatly delayed; in Michigan the prospects are of a small wheat crop, and the harvest will be two weeks late. In Minnesota and Wisconsin wheat prospects have improved in the last two weeks. Kentucky and Tennessee report an improved wheat crop prospect, while certain counties in Kansas predict not to exceed half a crop. Other counties of Kansas continue to send in very favorable reports. Ohio and Indiana report fair prospects only for wheat in certain sections. Missouri is reported to fear chinch bugs. In Dakota prospects are very promising.

Clipper Freights.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—Clipper freights are flat. The financial disturbances of the past week have created distrust and uneasiness, and freight offerings are scarce and but little tonnage is offering for immediate loading. A member of the firm of Sutton & Co. said to your reporter this morning: "The panic in Wall street has brought on stagnation in clipper freights, which was not unexpected, as the market has been feeling the depression for some time past. We have taken no carriers." The St. Paul and the E. B. Sutton are still on berth in this line, and are doing fairly. Rates are still firm, and the market is quiet and inactive. Van Vleck & Co. have taken no ships during the past week. The Berlin will be full by the first, getting away three days earlier than was expected. There are no ships to Oregon.

Mechanical Engineers.

PITTSBURG, May 20.—The national society of mechanical engineers met in annual session here tonight. Delegates were present from all parts of the United States. The evening session was occupied in reading a lengthy paper prepared by the western Pennsylvania engineers' society, on natural gas, its uses, abuses and management. The convention will adjourn Friday.

A Japanese Prince.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Prince Yamashina, aged 16, a member of one of the imperial families of Japan, with two attendants and fifteen other young Japanese, arrived here to-day. The prince is on a tour of pleasure and observation. He goes hence to New York. Other members of the party will become students in this country, Germany and France.

Oregon Salmon in New York.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—The first Oregon salmon to come to New York in a patent refrigerator car arrived at Fulton market yesterday in good condition after a journey of nine days. They were sent to Eugene Blackford by Marquis De Mores, who is in partnership with Blackford in the enterprise.

The Presbyterian Assembly.

SARATOGA, May 20.—The Presbyterian assembly abolished the office of treasurer, the duties to be done by clerks. The report of the special committee on Sabbath observance, deprecating all forms of labor on that day, was adopted unanimously. The report on home missions was submitted.

Where She Missed It.

DETROIT, May 20.—Henry Dillmon of Akron, Ohio, is in the city looking for his wife, who some time since took the children and skipped out. Since that event Dillmon has come into a large fortune, on the death of a brother in California, and he wants to recover the children.

A Japanese Artist's Success.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—A Paris cable to the Herald says the Japanese pupil of Jerome, Yamamoto, recently executed some panels of the seasons, which are well spoken of, as are his "Poverty and Riches," represented by women of his own country.

Wool Markets.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Wool is quiet and prices are nominal.

BOSTON, May 20.—Wool is in moderate demand. Ohio and Pennsylvania extras, 34@35c; Michigan fleeces, 32@40c; pulled, 20@38c; others unchanged.

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Wheat, steady and strong at 88¾ for June, 90¾ for July. Barley, quiet at 72.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

A Negro Attempts to Outrage Three Women—He is Hunted Down and Finally Killed by a Mob.

GALVESTON, May 20.—News' Denison special: About 9 o'clock last night a negro attacked two young girls, daughters of a prominent citizen, and attempted to outrage both, but they succeeded in breaking from his grasp and escaping. Continuing his course up the street the villain then attacked a servant girl whose cries brought a policeman. A battle ensued in which the negro was badly beaten and it is believed was shot. But notwithstanding this the negro downed the policeman with a rock and escaped. Over 200 citizens are now scouring the town and suburbs in search. Certain lynching awaits the negro if captured.

A later dispatch says: The two young ladies assaulted were Alice and Hannah, aged 14 and 17 years, daughters of Judge Gilbert. The former received a severe gash on the forehead and had her eye badly injured. The latter was struck with a knife which cut her corset stays, saving her life, but making a flesh wound. Annie McGowan, the servant girl assaulted, was not injured. About 11 o'clock the negro was traced to Taylortown. After a struggle he was captured and carried to jail, a mob following. Near midnight the mob increased and threatened to burn the jail. The officers became alarmed and asked fifteen minutes in which to get the other prisoners out. When the time expired the mob clamored. The officers again asked for further time. Suddenly a man boldly pushed his way through the door, ax in hand, and appeared before the cell occupied by the terrified negro. A few blows battered the door down. The negro rushed out, within sight of the crowd and was shoved from the elevation. Before the victim reached the ground his body was riddled with bullets. He expired without a struggle. The crowd continued in a state of great excitement, threatening vengeance against the other prisoners. The officers finally persuaded the mob to desist and be satisfied. Quiet was restored at a late hour.

THE METHODISTS.

Proceedings of the Conference now Assembled at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—At the Methodist conference to-day the report of the committee on temperance was submitted. It urges the people to use their influence to banish the social glass, and advises the formation of juvenile temperance societies in Sunday schools, that shall have one temperance lesson each quarter. The state legislatures are requested to introduce instructions as to the use of alcohol in state universities and public schools. The committee recommended the formation of a conference of temperance societies, and that all annual conferences strive for the legal prohibition of the liquor traffic. As a duty of civil government the people ought not to allow themselves to be controlled by party organization managed in the interest of the liquor traffic.

Several motions, postponing action were defeated, and a motion prevailed for the previous question. Yeas, 241; nays, 100.

It was announced that Rev. Dr. J. M. Drickley had been elected editor of the Christian Advocate, and that Rev. Dr. Arthur Edwards, the present incumbent, was elected editor of the North-western Christian Advocate.

The report of the committee on episcopacy was presented by Dr. Curren, who stated that by a unanimous vote they recommended the election of a missionary bishop to Africa.

Rev. Dr. Hartzell of Louisiana said there were no legal difficulties in the way, and it was time for the conference to say whether or not it intended to give up Africa. No bishop had visited that country in seven years.

SPORTING NOTES.

BICYCLE RACE AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The annual races of the league of American wheelmen took place this afternoon in the presence of 3000 spectators. The first race, twenty-five miles for the championship league trophy, now held by Robinson of England, was won by Frazer of Smithville, N. J., in 1 hour, 38 minutes and 42½ seconds. The second race, ten miles, was won by Brooks of Elmira, New York, in 30:3. The third race, three miles was won by Hanna of this city in 10:16½. The fourth race, one mile, was won by Hendee of Smithville, New Jersey, in 3:6½. The last race, one mile for tricycles was also won by Hendee in 3:57½.

CLEARY SENDS SHERIFF "TO GRASS."

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Fully 3000 persons in Industrial hall last night witnessed a glove contest between Mike Cleary and William Sheriff, better known as "the Prussian." The fight was of short duration, Sheriff being knocked out 1 time in one minute and one second. Cleary's third or fourth blow in the first round felled Sheriff to the stage, and although he three times regained his feet, he each time fell again through weakness not receiving the attention of his second. Cleary was declared [illegible]

A Remedy [illegible].—Dr. Robert Newton, late President of the [illegible] College of the city of New York, [illegible] Cincinnati, Ohio, used DR. WM. HALL'S [illegible] very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living and restored to health [illegible] of this invaluable medicine, can amply [illegible]. He always said that so good a remedy ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It cures Consumption, and has no equal for all pectoral complaints.

THE STAGE.

A COMEDIAN GOES TO THE HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—A special from Philadelphia says that Frank Drew, once a popular and well known comedian, at his own request, has been sent to the house of correction as an habitual drunkard.

"More than all other Lung Remedies," is what E. W. Fairman, a druggist at Dayton, Ind., writes about the sale of Allen's Lung Balsam. He has sold it for eight years, and it gives satisfaction in all cases.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Another Decline in the Price of Stocks—An Erie Bank President Absconds.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Governments lower. Railways lower, for West Shore 6. Stocks weak and lower. Throughout the day many unfavorable and unfounded reports were circulated. Rumors regarding Russell Sage and his colleagues were made against the market in the afternoon. Prices opened ⅛ to 1½ per cent. lower. The break brought in buyers, and there was a rally of ½ to 2 per cent. In the afternoon Central Pacific broke 1½ to 32½, Northern Pacific preferred 1½ to 47¼, Pacific Mail 2⅜ to 36⅜, and Union Pacific 1 to 43. Near the close of the market there was a better feeling, and the market rallied ½ to 3½ per cent., but in final dealings this improvement was lost. The market closed comparatively firm. Ten thousand shares of Western Union were transferred to investors.

Compared with last night's closing, prices are 1½ lower for Central Pacific, 1½ for Northern Pacific preferred, 1½ for Pacific Mail, and ⅛ to 1 per cent for the remainder of the list. American Cable declined 2 per cent. to 60, Bankers' and Merchants' telegraph fell to 46 and Manitoba sold off 2 to 90 and dropped to 87½. Oregon Navigation advanced 2 to 79 and closed offering at 77.

Rufus Hatch says there is not a word of truth in the rumor that he had failed.

MONEY, BONDS AND STOCKS.

FAILURE OF AN ERIE BANK.

ERIE, N. Y., May 20.—This city is in a state of great excitement over the failure of the Erie County Savings bank, with liabilities of $330,000, nearly all owing to mechanics and poor people. The institution was incorporated in 1871 with a capital of $100,000, and had heretofore done a safe business. A year ago President Adam Brabender began speculating, it is said, and recently on a break in oil lost $40,000. When the treasurer opened the safe to-day he found that the time lock had been tampered with and all funds in the bank were gone. In place of the missing funds were notes of Brabender's to the amount of only half the shortage. Brabender also receipted at the express office for a $10,000 package, and fled. The last seen of him was in church last evening. He has heretofore borne a good reputation, was called an honest German, and reputed to be worth $100,000. Stockholders of the bank claim that depositors will lose nothing, but there is great excitement, and runs began on three other savings banks. No difficulty was experienced, however, in meeting all demands. The missing president is 60 years old.

HEBER NEWTON ON THE PANIC.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—Rev. Heber Newton on Sunday spoke on the the lessons of the panic in Wall street. He said it has been said that business panics are the result of gambling, and that dishonest speculation is a large factor in the production of these crises. New York is destined to be the commercial center of the world, and dealers here have to discount futures and the result is that exchanging has come to be pure speculation. While only one in every seven bushels of wheat raised in the country is actually handled here, two bushels are sold here for every one raised. For every 6,000,000 bales of cotton raised 32,000,000 bales are sold here. What we need is a public sentiment to condemn this great evil. We need a higher standard of financial responsibility. A man pushed into a corner by speculation will use any money he can get his hands on.

FROM THE "POST."

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—The Post says: "The condition of affairs in Wall street this morning was a disappointment to those who thought the market would steadily improve. The market opened weak, and from the outset prices declined steadily, and at noon had reached the lowest point since the opening. The decline in the prices of all securities, and the unsettled condition of the market, has had an unfavorable effect upon the prospects of the suspended firms, some of whom have statements ready. Several of the firms are less sanguine of early resumption than last week."

THE STOCK EXCHANGE PRESIDENCY.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—The names of William Lummis and Thomas Denny, old and prominent members of the stock exchange, are mentioned in connection with the election of a new president, to succeed Hatch. The election will be held on the 26th. It is understood that both Lummis and Denny are willing to accept the position. This morning a petition was circulated urging Denny to consent to serve, and was quickly signed by more than sixty members of the exchange.

FAILURE NOTES.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The report that Russell Sage had "laid down" on contracts was revived to-day. It was ascertained that Sage was paying off as usual. Ferdinand Ward has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury to-morrow.

THE NEWARK FAILURE.

NEWARK, May 20.—The officers of the savings institution expect full payment from Fisk & Hatch. The depositors then will receive full payment.

THE WOOL GROWERS.

Report of the Committee Appointed to Prepare an Address to Persons Interested.

CHICAGO, May 20.—The national mass meeting of wool growers of the United States resumed session at 10 o'clock this morning. The committee appointed to prepare an address to the wool growers and sheep breeders of the United States, reported as follows:

Gentlemen: At the national convention of wool growers and sheep breeders of the United States, held at Chicago the 19th of May, 1884, and which was attended by delegates from twenty states, a committee was appointed to draw up an address to the wool growers of the country, for the purpose of arousing them to a proper realization of the necessity that exists for immediate and energetic action if they would rescue the great industry in which they are engaged from the present depressed condition, and from impending danger of a still more serious nature. The undersigned members of the committee firmly believe that the existing sad condition of the interest you represent has been brought about largely, if not altogether, by adverse congressional legislation, and that it will not again be prosperous until congress shall reverse its action at its last session, and restore the rates of duty to those which prevailed under the tariff of 1867, by which, for the first time in the industrial history of the country, equitable relations were established between duties on wool and those on woolen goods. It can be conclusively shown that the tariff act of that year gave to American producers of both wools and woolen goods steady markets, and secured the expansion of production, and that through expanded production it gave the consumers cheaper wools and woolens than were ever before known in America, and brought prices for all goods of ordinary wear, and of many for fine and luxurious wear, lower, or as low, as are known in Europe or elsewhere.

HOW THE CHANGE WAS EFFECTED.

The repeal of the tariff of 1867 on wool and woolens was not asked for, as has been alleged, by the conservative business sentiment of the country, or by any considerable number of the American people. It was brought about wholly through the efforts of importers and others interested in securing in the United States a market for foreign wools, aided by a few parties who desired to make use of foreign produce with which to control the American markets and menace the American producers, upon whom they were necessarily compelled to rely for nine-tenths of the wool required in their business. These combined influences, unpatriotic and un-American, led to the passage of the unwise, abortive and suicidal tariff act of 1883, to which we firmly believe may be attributed the present depressed condition of the wool industry.

You have doubtless, gentlemen, heard much of late touching the soundness of the policy of putting raw materials of manufacture, including wool, on the free list. We trust you will resent such proposition whenever and wherever made, with the indignation which it justly merits. Wool is the finished product of a million flock owners, who have, by years of intelligent and patient labor, and the expenditure of large sums of money, brought their product to the present high standard of excellence. To class it simply as raw material, something that has been produced, almost without cost or expenditure, or time and labor, is an injustice, against which we trust you will enter an effective protest. The arguments used in defense of the principle of protection apply at least as forcibly to wool as to any other article in the tariff schedule. Growing wool is equal with growing food and forests and with the manufacture of iron and steel.

A NAVY NEEDED.

The maintenance of a commercial marine and navy is the primary element of national defense in war and of financial security and independence in peace, the loss or neglect of which would derange our entire monetary system and place the entire country in a condition of industrial and colonial vassalage to foreign producers, equally fatal to the happiness and unbecoming the dignity and honor of a nation whose annual increase in wealth is now three fold that of any other nation, and whose population now gives it the second rank among civilized empires and first among free self-governing and enlightened people.

The appeal finally declares that woolgrowers have a right to ask congress for the restoration of measures of protection, and concludes in the following terms: "Finally, believing desperate diseases require heroic remedies, we especially urge you to sustain at the polls for legislative officers, only such candidates as are in favor of adequately protecting and encouraging the industry of sheep husbandry by voting to restore the wool tariff of 1867, or rates of duties at least as protective as those embodied in that act."

The report was unanimously adopted. The remainder of the session was taken up by the discussion of methods for united action pending the national political canvass in making the power of the wool industry felt.

The convention reassembled at 4 o'clock, and appointed a committee of three republicans to attend the republican national convention, and three democrats to attend the democratic national convention, to urge the claims of the wool growers for restoration of the tariff of 1867 on wool, and to present the ultimatum of flock masters, as set forth in its platform and address.

For 25 years I was afflicted with Catarrh. For two months at a time confined in my room. I tried Ely's Cream Balm; from the first I found relief. It is the best remedy I ever tried.—W. C. Mathews, Justice of the Peace, Shenandoah, Iowa.

THE PRESIDENCY.

MacVeagh Writes a Sarcastic Letter to Ex-Secretary Bristow.

ARTHUR'S RECORD SEVERELY CRITICISED.

The Meeting of Business Men at New York to Endorse the Present Administration—Beecher Makes a Speech.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—[Special.]—The Times prints an open letter from Wayne MacVeagh to ex-Secretary Bristow, who is advertised to speak at the great Arthur meeting to be held here to-morrow night in which he makes the following points: At the threshold I ought to warn you that while nobody envies Arthur his great prize, so far beyond his expectations as his deserts, which he drew in the lottery of assassination, nobody has forgotten the pregnant fact that Guiteau was an original Arthur man; but he killed Garfield expressly to make Arthur president, and that he did make him president by that act for nearly four years. Now, in view of this awful tragedy and its results, it has always seemed to a good many people, outside of Wall street, of course, that a proper sense of decency and the fitness of things, would have led Arthur and his friends to see that this true course was to be satisfied with the one term thus secured to him, and not to challenge his countrymen to review his political career. I assume that your first words of eulogy will be devoted to what is your candidate's chief political achievement and upon which his admirers have always rested his title to fame, the building up and managing of the republican "machine" of the city of New York, the latest triumph of which at Albany, causes the hearts of all true patriots to throb with joy, for the defeat of Roosevelt leaves O'Brien at liberty to continue those "deals" with corrupt democrats and politicians which gave Mr. Arthur his first renown as a practical statesman. You will no doubt introduce copious extracts from the commission which investigated Arthur's administration of the custom house and found it worthy of such high commendation. And a rebuke could be neatly administered at this point to Roosevelt, the son, by reminding your audience how his honored father was rejected as collector of the port in order to keep Arthur in that important office, in spite of the expressed opinion of both of his superior officers that he was an unworthy official and deserved to be turned out.

THE LAST CONVENTION.

If you wish materials for a pathetic and thrilling picture you will readily find them in some of the well known incidents of the Chicago convention four years ago. You can tell how everybody was determined that Conkling must be placated at any cost, and how everybody begged him not to force Arthur upon the convention, and how Conkling refused to consider any other name. You must reserve your highest flight of eloquence for an adequate description of that occasion where your candidate displayed his true nobility of soul, and made his only recorded public speech. I need not say that I allude to the Dorsey banquet at Delmonico's in February, 1881. You can tell your audience, without fear of successful contradiction, that it was the first and last occasion in our history when one man publicly praised another for bribing voters. Arthur's part in the resignation of Conkling and Platt, and his conduct at Albany, until summoned to Washington by the sound of Guiteau's pistol, perhaps you would better touch lightly. There are some sentimental republicans in this state, as well as in New York and Ohio, who don't quite enjoy these reminiscences, and I would not advise you to dwell too long upon that mad riot of calumny and defamation of the dead Garfield in which, for many months, the intimate friends and associates of Mr. Arthur indulged, without any signs of disapproval by him, and in the cases of Gorham, Hatton and Hastings, with abundant signs of approval.

SOME MORE SUGGESTIONS.

You will, of course, admit that when Guiteau promoted him to the presidency, Mr. Arthur was proved to be known as an enthusiastic supporter of the "boss" system, the "spoils" system, the third term of General Grant, and the [illegible] then 52 years of age, and your ask is [illegible] anybody you can that his desire for a second term has effected a complete change in the methods, standards and habits of his whole life. You will offer the appointment of Chandler to the cabinet as one proof of this change. You will interest your audience in the pleasing story of his alliance with Mahone, to secure the repudiation even of compromise bonds, forced upon the unhappy creditors of Virginia; the alliance with Chalmers in Mississippi; the masterly campaign in New York only two years ago, and its brilliant ending; the Keogh case in North Carolina; the Strobach case in Alabama; the Kellogg case in Louisiana; the promotion of Barney Biglin's brother, and the appointment of Proxy French's brother, etc., and you can truthfully declare that Arthur can boast of one distinction, shared with no other candidates—that he is under no obligations for a single one of his delegates; all of them were secured for him by his own office holders.

A PERORATION SUGGESTED.

The only peroration you will need will be to read the roll call of the distinguished patriots whose names you will find in the conference with him during his visit to you of last week, when he resumed personal charge of his boom in your city, and started the movement for your meeting, and listen to their illustrious names: Stephen B. French, Robert G. McCord, John Lydecker, John F. Smyth, DeWitt Clinton Wheeler and John J. O'Brien. And I recommend these patriotic and high minded gentlemen and your fellow-workers, to your charitable consideration. In 1876 they would not have trusted themselves in your company, and even now they will harbor a lurking suspicion that you intend to seduce them. That is the penalty you have to pay for having been a reformer.

HOW THE LETTER IS RECEIVED.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—[Special.]—The letter of ex-Attorney General MacVeagh to ex-Secretary of the Treasury Bristow, published this morning, has been the principal topic of conversation among politicians to-day. The friends of Arthur are wild with rage that MacVeagh should have put the knife so severely into every weak point of General Arthur's anatomy. The friends of Blaine are pleased with the letter, because it shows in a clear style the weakness of the president's candidacy. They are somewhat surprised, however, that McVeagh, who was supposed to be quite as bitter an enemy of Blaine as of Arthur, should have written a letter calculated to do the former so much benefit. The general impression here seems to be that McVeagh has almost if not quite offset the advantages that the president is to gain by the meeting of business men at New York to-night.

The Evening Star says, editorially: "The letter, as can be seen, is a very bitter one, and in more than one instance it violates good taste, not to say courtesy and decency. The reference to Guiteau, for instance, is entirely uncalled for, and were MacVeagh less of a jurist in politics, it might be called a bit of demagoguery. The letter presents in a very forcible light, however, most of the principal objections to Arthur as a candidate, and may have some damaging effect, particularly in New York, where the president must be able to show commanding strength if he wishes to get before the convention with fair prospects of success."

THE ARTHUR MEETING AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A great mass meeting of citizens and business men, called to express approval of the administration of President Arthur and urge his renomination for a second term, was held to-night at Cooper Union. A more orderly and intelligent assemblage than that which crowded the great hall was never before seen in this city. At 7:30 every seat in the building was occupied, and half an hour later, when Cornelius N. Bliss of Bliss, Fallon & Co. called the meeting to order, not another person could find standing room in the hall. Throngs still continued to pour into the doorways, until finally, at ten minutes to 8, the commandant of police gave orders to close the doors. Among the audience were a large number of ladies. Seats were provided upon the platform for about sixty people. Among the prominent persons who occupied them were Cornelius N. Bliss, Frederick S. Winston, Henry Ward Beecher, Benjamin H. Bristow and Edwards Pierrepont, assistant United States treasurer.

The band at 8 discoursed various airs. When Beecher made his appearance the audience gave three cheers. The applause was continued for some time after he took his seat.

The Siamese minister came in just before the meeting opened, and with the members of his suite was given seats on the platform.

THE MEETING CALLED TO ORDER.

At 8 o'clock Cornelius N. Bliss called the meeting to order, and in a brief speech stated the object for which it was called. He said it was an unusual thing for business men to have a voice in choosing a candidate for the presidency, as this was the work of those who were supposed to be better informed in public affairs. The political papers, he said, undertook to deprecate the efforts of business men in the present instance, and had intimated that at the present time especially it would be better for business men to attend to their own business and look after their stocks and bonds and merchandise, instead of meddling with politics. They would take the liberty, however, in spite of these unfavorable comments, to express their views in the matter and urge the renomination of the man who, although he came into office under such trying circumstances, had proved himself so worthy of the great charge entrusted to him by the people, and whose administration had met with such signal success. [Applause.]

Bliss concluded by introducing Frederick S. Winston, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, as chairman of the meeting. Winston was received with applause as he stepped forward and thanked the assemblage for the honor conferred. He characterized President Arthur as a man of the highest integrity and in every way worthy of support. Men of all classes were centering upon President Arthur. He denied that this was a class meeting, and asserted that it was a meeting of all citizens. Everyone felt the importance of having a good candidate in the present crisis, and he felt certain that their efforts would be crowned with success in November next.

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Parke Godwin, editor of the Commercial Advertiser, made a short address, and then Rev. Henry Ward Beecher was presented. Mr. Beecher was again enthusiastically welcomed. He said: "This is an assemblage of business men, not of capitalists or monopolists, or bloated bondholders, as we have been termed by, I was going to say, raving madmen, but I will be charitable and call them ill-natured men. I hold that the business part of a community represents in many respects the best interests of our whole country, and business men perhaps more than any others require a stable government. They do not care so much about politics, because they can adapt themselves to politics, but they do want to be able to look forward to a stable and uniform policy of government. We have met here simply as a voice, to suggest to the convention at Chicago what is the will of the republicans of New York, together with as many democrats as God has made rational and intelligent. [Applause and laughter.] We are not here to inveigh against any other prominent gentleman whose name has been mentioned, nor to make threats that if our choice is not nominated we won't play. [Laughter.] We express our choice who is Chester A. Arthur. He is a man who has proved himself, under trying circumstances, one of the most able presiding officers this nation ever had. That he has been subject to a little criticism is no marvel. The enmity that a man whose name should be inveighed instead of McVeagh has displayed towards Arthur, is nothing compared to the invective heaped upon Washington, and so as to Jackson, Lincoln and Grant, up to Hayes.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE PRESIDENT.

"When Hayes took the presidency the country had been scorched with the fires of war, and as a physician applies sweet oil and poultices to the skin of scalded men, so the nation needed a poultice, and it got it. [Laughter.] When elected vice president Mr. Arthur had been an ardent New York politician, loyal to his party and his friends, carrying himself, perhaps, beyond the line of prudence; but I honor the man whose imprudence springs from the integrity and loyalty of his heart. [Applause.] When, by the terrible deed of an insane man he became president, he forgot the things he remembered merely as a politician of New York, and turned with greater trust and a wider horizon to confront the duties before him. And when it was necessary he should sacrifice a bosom friend rather than involve the country in old troubles and bitterness again, he gave up his friend. Now, as to the civil service, I think investigation will show that President Arthur was the first to institute civil service reform. He began it when he was in the custom house, and he still continues it. I don't believe in the nonsense of 'no third term.' I hold if a man proves competent he should be put in for a third, or fourth, or even a fifth term. If by his acts any man ever earned a renomination, Arthur deserves his. I don't say the non-election of Mr. Arthur is going to ruin the country. The country will prosper whoever is president; but it is certainly the case that its prosperity is assured, so far as it can be assured by the action of any one man."

BRISTOW'S SPEECH.

Hon. Benjamin H. Bristow, ex-secretary of the treasury, was the next speaker. He began his address by sketching briefly the distress and discontent which prevailed in the republican ranks at the accession of President Arthur, discontent which, he said, culminated in his state in the overwhelming defeat of the republican candidate for governor against whom personally nothing could be urged. Even the most sanguine republicans would then hardly have dared to assert that a republican president could be elected in 1884. He referred to the wonderful change in New York last year of a republican legislature, and the remarks the accession in the ranks of republican presidential candidates. This change the speaker attributed, in great part, to the moderation, wisdom and quiet dignity of President Arthur's administration. By refusing to use the power of his great office in the interest of factions he has promoted harmony in the party ranks, and reform in the civil service. Bristow said the civil service commissioners selected by him, pursuant to the statute, were men [illegible] are well known for their zeal and intelligence in the cause of civil service reform, and these have united in testifying to the correctness and perfect good faith of the president in carrying out the law, in letter and spirit. The ex-secretary declared that the business men of this city and country care little for political acts, but they had an opinion and dared to express it, that the general course of President Arthur's administration was good and would on the whole be for the best interests of the country.

AN ALLUSION TO MACVEAGH.

The orator closed with the following reference to a letter of Mr. MacVeagh, published this morning: "My distinguished friend who has been put to the inconvenience of rushing into print to give me points for a speech does not seem to have quite understood that this meeting was called by free and independent voters, who have the habit of thinking for themselves on all matters of public concern, and who have no other end in view than the public good. I must decline his invitation of going into the slums of personal defamation."

Bristow retired amid cheers and applause, and after a few other speeches the meeting adjourned. A committee of 100 will be appointed to go to Chicago.

CONKLING SPEAKS WELL OF BLAINE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—[Special.]—John B. Alley of Massachusetts, lately returned from a trip to New York, said to your correspondent to-day: "I saw Mr. Conkling when I was in New York. He has greatly softened towards Blaine. While speaking of the probability of a dark horse being nominated he said: 'I hope the convention will not nominate a nobody.' We have had 'nobodys' enough. What we want is somebody. Whatever can be said against Blaine it cannot be charged that he is a nobody.' He has rendered his party and his country great service since he has been in public life, and he is fully entitled to the credit of it." I saw General Grant, and he said, while speaking of Edmunds: 'Edmunds is a strong man, but he would have a hard time if he was to be elected president. He could not veto all the bills sent to him by congress and would have to please some one.'"

ARTHUR'S CHANCES IN CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—A Washington special to the Commercial-Advertiser says: Samuel Bagley is reported as saying: "If Arthur is nominated he will receive a very large vote in California. California does not favor his nomination, I will grant you; she has other preferences. Arthur's course on the Chinese bill hurt him, but we have forgiven that, and he has time much since that time to gain our respect. He had the manliness to do all in his power to enforce the stop of legislation that congress threw to us. I regard the prospects of Arthur, if nominated, as good. California business men are, on the whole, friendly to Arthur."

THEY CONCUR.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A telegram signed by the presidents of the First and Commercial banks, by John V. Farwell, Philip D. Armour, Henry Keys, O. W. Potter and other representatives of large commercial and financial interests, was sent to-night to the business men's meeting in New York in behalf of President Arthur's renomination. The dispatch expressed appreciation of the importance of the call for that meeting, endorses the spirit and sentiments of its call and believes President Arthur should be nominated, both in justice to the welfare of the entire country, and to one who has made so good a president.

WILL TRAMP FOR BUTLER.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—Ralph Beaumont, of Elmira, president of the Knights of Labor, will make a tour of the continent on foot, from Maine to California. He will start from Bangor July 3d, and expects to make upwards of twenty miles a day, delivering lectures every night at some town en route on the labor and anti-monopoly question. He will advocate the claims of Butler to the support of independent voters as a presidential candidate. Mr. Beaumont expects to reach California before the close of the campaign.

NOTABLE DEAD.

KEENE'S OPINION OF SAM. WARD.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—Lengthy and flattering obituaries of Sam. Ward appear in all the leading eastern papers. James Keene says of him: "Ward made a great deal of money when Villard exploited his various enterprises, and subsequently lost a great deal. I have no doubt his sudden prosperity turned his head, and adversity completed the work of ruin. Had this sudden wealth never came to him Sam. Ward would be alive well and happy to-day, I have not a shadow of a doubt."

A MAN WHO GUARDED NAPOLEON.

DETROIT, May 20.—William Palmer, an old veteran who attained a national reputation from being the only surviving soldier who guarded Napoleon while on the island of St. Helena, died at his home in Battle Creek last night.

COLONEL GEORGE M. TOTTEN.

NEW YORK, May 20.—[Special.]—Colonel George M. Totten, one of the engineers of the Panama railroad and other works in Central and South America, died recently, aged 85.

THE TURF.

THE RACES AT LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, May 20.—The races were well attended. The track was stiff.

First race, city purse, maiden two year olds, half mile; won by Fredstone, Warrenton second, Leonard third. Time, 50.

Woodburn stakes, three year olds, nine furlongs; Billy Gilmore won by a length, Farandole second, Mark Daly third. Time, 2:02¾.

Louisville cup race, sweepstakes, for all ages, 2¼ miles, was contested by Taxgatherer, Harry Gilmore, [illegible], April Fool, [illegible], Vanguard, Rosalind and Ida B. On the lower turn, when getting home, Barnum moved to third place and Harry Gilmore and April Fool appeared even. The race now became interesting. Barnum captured the prize by a neck, Harry Gilmore second, April Fool third. Time, 4:07. French pools paid $137.

A handicap hurdle race finished the day, distance one mile and a quarter—Won by Levant, [illegible] second, Saunterer third. Time, 2:14½.

RAILROAD NOTES.

THE MEXICAN CENTRAL DIRECTORS.

CHICAGO, May 20.—The special train bearing the directors of the Mexican Central railroad, returning from the trip of inspection over the road, reached this city to-day. The officials are accompanied by a number of leading Mexicans. After spending the afternoon in sightseeing, most of the members of the party left for the east to-night.

PAYING IN SCRIP.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—It is stated that the scrip of the Reading railroad for wages and supplies for April and May has made its appearance. The time for its redemption, Keim says, is four months, and it bears no interest.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

HE MET A DESERVED FATE.

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—The Times-Democrat's Scooba, Miss., special says: Mark Moore, living six miles west of Wahlak, last night shot his wife fatally, and then grossly assaulted his step daughter, intimidating her with a pistol. He was found hanging to a tree this morning. Moore had killed six men.

TICKET THIEF ARRESTED.

TROY, N. Y., May 20.—John McLaughlin of Hoosic Falls was arrested to-day charged with robbing the depot at Eagle Bridge of $13,000 worth of railroad tickets.

The Sharon Divorce Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—In the Sharon divorce case to-day expert Hyde testified with reference to five letters known as "the wife letters." He stated that in three of them the word "wife" was not in the same handwriting as the body of the letters. That in two of them the word "wife" was in plaintiff's handwriting. Senator Sharon, who has been absent from the court room for the past three weeks, was present to-day. While cross-examination of Hyde was in progress by plaintiff's attorney recess was called, in order to allow the necessary witnesses to attend the police court, where the examination of the perjured witnesses Wells, and the colored woman Martha Wilson, was held. Wells waived examination. Both were held in $20,000 bail, in default of which they were sent to jail.

Dissension in the Democratic Ranks.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—[Special.]—There is a lively fight in the democratic ranks. Three ward clubs last night appealed to the county committee in behalf of 4000 democrats, to adopt a new system of primary election, claiming that the machinery of the old system is so completely in the hands of Chris Buckley that it is useless to attempt to oppose his will. One of the leaders of the anti-Buckley movement said to THE OREGONIAN correspondent last night that in case the county committee disregarded their appeal they would organize an independent movement. The matter will probably end in bluster, as Buckley has a habit of easily quelling all such revolts.

The Contest for Office in Alaska.

[Special.]—About every third man in California wants an office in Alaska. Mr. Brown, a man long prominent in local politics, and a friend of Senator Miller, and consequently a friend of the Alaska Commercial Company, is after the governorship. Young Hall McAllister, nephew of the well known criminal lawyer, wants the judgeship, and for the marshalship and all minor offices there are scores of candidates. There can be no doubt but that a slate has been made up by the Alaska Commercial Company, in the interest of itself first and San Francisco secondly.

Banquet of the Tilden and Hendricks Club.

The annual banquet of the Tilden and Hendricks Club took place this evening at B'nai Brith hall. There were 500 of the most prominent democrats of the state present. Judge Craig occupied the chair. The opening speech was made by State Senator Delvall, in response to the toast, "The Ticket of 1876." Feasting and oratory continued till past midnight. A letter of regret was received from General Hancock.

High Water at the Needles.

Reports received from the Needles, California, state that the Colorado river is rising rapidly. The Atlantic and Pacific railroad bridge over the river at that point has been partly washed away. The Southern Pacific Company have sent a large gang of men to help repair it. In the meantime passengers are being transferred.

"Lucky" Baldwin Married.

E. J. Baldwin, known as "Lucky" Baldwin, was married this afternoon to Miss Lilly C. Bennett, at the residence of the bride's parents. No cards had been issued. The bride is 20 years of age. Mr. Baldwin and his bride left for the east this afternoon.

STATE DISPATCHES.

The Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. at Astoria.

ASTORIA, May 20.—[Special.]—The Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. has a full delegation, many taking advantage of the occasion to bring their wives and lady friends. The hotels are full to overflowing, but through the exertions of Beaver lodge all delegates have found comfortable quarters and are enjoying their visit. Our new hall is a surprise to all, and excites general admiration. To-morrow morning, by invitation of Beaver lodge, a pleasant trip is arranged for all the delegates and friends to Fort Canby, and the Miles will carry all who wish to pay tribute to old Neptune out over the bar. No business of a public nature has as yet been transacted.

Officers elected by the encampment are A. G. Walling, grand patriarch; D. S. K. Buick, grand high priest; John M. Bacon, grand secretary; L. E. Moores, grand treasurer; I. W. Case, grand senior warden; R. M. Day, grand junior warden.

The grand lodge of the state elected the following officers: J. J. Walton, grand master; W. C. Tweedale, deputy grand master; E. Alexander, grand warden; I. W. Case, grand representative; John M. Bacon, grand secretary; L. E. Moores, grand treasurer.

An Albany Man Drowned while Fishing.

ALBANY, May 20.—[Special.]—Edward Murray, proprietor of the Exchange hotel, was drowned this afternoon while fishing in the Calipooia river, near the Magnolia flouring mills. A plank upon which he was standing broke, letting him fall into the river. He struck upon his head, and was probably stunned, as help was at hand, but when brought to land it was impossible to save his life. Mr. Murray is the third of the family who has been drowned in the same place.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

The Montana Improvement Company Attached.

SPRAGUE, May 20.—[Special.]—The Montana Improvement Company's lumber yard here was attached on Saturday last for $80,000. This, with the former attachment, makes about $90,000, brought by D. W. Small. Their yard is still closed, and they have stopped shipping lumber until the matter is settled.

MEXICO.

THE PEOPLE REVOLT AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

GALVESTON, May 20.—News' Matamoras, Mexico, special, via Brownsville: Reports reached Matamoras to-day that a serious revolt broke out yesterday, between the people and the government troops and officials at Linares, about 200 miles from Matamoras. No particulars could be learned. Telegrams have been sent, asking for particulars. Fears are entertained here by both the citizens and officers that a revolution has started, which will spread over the entire republic. Quite a number of prominent parties here seem not to be surprised at the reported revolt. It is not unwelcome news to many. The government, as now administered, is so corrupt that the people are anxious for a change, believing that no government could be worse than the present. Some are found who seem to be rather anxious for a revolution, believing that it would result in annexation. That the political status of Mexico is troubled there is no longer a doubt.

SPAIN.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

MADRID, May 20.—In the speech from the throne to-day at the opening of the cortes, King Alfonso announced that a commercial treaty with England would be submitted to the cortes; that the rank of the Spanish representative to London hereafter will be minister instead of ambassador; and promised that the pay of soldiers shall be increased and the system of taxation reformed.

Things are beginning to look serious, and it is generally expected there will be trouble at the sun dance.

CHAMPAGNE ONLY IN NAME.

The New Process of Making Wine not very Highly Thought of.

New York Mail and Express.

"Pure champagne," said a wine dealer in Broad street to a Mail and Express reporter Friday, "is one of the hardest things in the world to find. For my part I do not believe there is any perfectly pure wine of that kind in the country. Take my advice and let the stuff they sell champagne alone."

"But we used to get pure champagne?"

"Yes, I know we did; but that was years ago. The real stuff has been exhausted for many a day. Under the old process of manufacture there was produced a pure, wholesome wine. The juice of the grapes was allowed to ferment in the casks first; thus all impurities were thrown off. Then the wine was drawn off and bottled, with a little syrup or a few raisins to produce a second fermentation. The bottles were then placed neck downwards on long racks, and men went through the cellar every day for three years, taking up the bottles and shaking them, so that each bottle was handled 1200 times or more before being put on the market."

"Is not the same plan followed now?"

"No. The new process omits the second fermentation. The wine is ready for sale in two months from the time its manufacture is begun. Ninety-nine one-hundredths of the wine drunk as champagne to-day contains nitrogen and oftentimes albuminous compounds as well. It is to get rid of this nitrogen and albumen that the second fermentation is necessary. Let a man drink too much champagne nowadays and he will have a beastly headache, and it is hard to get rid of for days. This is caused by the nitrogen in the champagne, left there by the new process."

"But are there not some brands that are very old?"

"Very few. When the Germans captured Alsace and Lorraine, which were the garden spots of France, they ransacked every cellar and drank all the champagne stored there. You see the demand is greater than the supply. The old process is too slow, so the manufacturers sacrifice quality to time. Some of the best known brands are produced by the new process."

The Democratic Dilemma.

New York Sun, dem.

The democratic convention will understand that neither New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Indiana nor Missouri can be carried for a free trade platform. Only Kentucky and South Carolina can be relied upon to support such a policy. Moreover, upon such a platform the democracy can hardly expect to elect more than a hundred members of the next house of representatives.

The interior of Whatcom county is settling up rapidly.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 21, 1884.

SPURIOUS INDEPENDENCE.

The Standard takes the trouble to quote from THE OREGONIAN of May, 1878, when an independent effort was made here, to which this journal gave its earnest support. But the matter which is quoted, while it fully justifies that independent effort, as pointedly condemns the present so-called independent movement. It was said of the independent ticket of 1878 by this paper that it was "not the product of officialism nor the outgrowth of a desire on the part of a few to manage politics in a professional way for personal ends." But the ticket now offered as "independent" is just that and nothing more. It springs solely out of "officialism;" that is, it has its origin in a combination of individuals of both parties who have alternately had possession of the offices at the court house. It is a combination to repossess the offices because they have great emoluments, seconded by those whose motive is personal revenge. Jeffery, who has been sheriff for two terms, and who knows what there is in the office, since its great emoluments laid for him the foundation of wealth, now wants it again, and has worked the "independent" machine to secure it; while Marshall, who has held official position at the court house for a number of years, went into the republican convention to get the clerkship, and failing to get it, was carried by his eagerness for the office into this pretended independent movement, making, as Jeffery had also done, his nomination by the so-called independents the condition of his adherence to the cause. This is the head and front, the spirit and backbone, of the "movement." Were it not for the emoluments of these offices there would be nothing whatever in it. It was worked up from both directions by old stagers who have had their day at the court house, and have now pooled their issues, some of them to get there again, and some of them working for revenge.

Again, in 1878 this paper said: "Behind this independent ticket is no system which promises personal reward. It is not in any sense an effort to work the thing for what there is in it." This negative definition of a true independent effort is just what the present "movement" will not stand. On the contrary, it is essentially an effort to "work the thing for what there is in it." If not, why are these professional jobbers in office and politics at the front? Why should the management have been taken into the hands of the ex-sheriffs and ex-clerks of both parties? Why should Ben Norden have been permitted to act as spokesman and general manager for the whole business of the double-ender convention? Either Norden or Jeffery, who are inseparable companions in politics, and alternates in seeking the office of sheriff, would now be the regular democratic candidate for the position if they thought their party strong enough to elect; and Marshall, had he got the republican nomination, which was almost within his reach, would be firmly of opinion that there was no need of an independent movement, no justification for it, and that everybody ought to "stand in" and elect him and the ticket.

THE OREGONIAN is not to be imposed on by this spurious kind of independence. As a ring movement it has no possible advantage over the worst of the "regular" rings, let the latter be what they may. And it is even worse in many ways, particularly in the hypocrisy that disclaims ring manipulation, and the greed for office which makes all possible effort to control nominations in the dominant party, and failing in that, turns to the other party and through it works up combinations to get them.

THE ELECTORAL COMMISSION.

The Springfield Republican calls attention to the fact that it was Senator Edmunds' peculiar fortune to offer to the electoral commission the only resolution which was adopted by a unanimous vote, as follows:

> Resolved, That the certificate signed by E. A. Cronin, J. N. T. Miller and John Parker, purporting to cast the electoral vote of the state of Oregon, does not contain nor certify the constitutional votes to which said state is entitled.

This was the vote to which the governor of Oregon gave a certificate, and which was rejected by the unanimous vote of the fifteen members of the commission on the ground that the laws of Oregon made the secretary of state, and not the governor, the legal officer to certify the vote. Senator Edmunds' powerful and almost single-handed advocacy of the electoral commission against the party judgment of Morton, Garfield and the great body of the stalwarts was the most statesmanlike act of his life. He was one of the first to see that a compromise was necessary to prevent anarchy or civil strife, and he had the boldness to insist upon the good old-fashioned Vermont method of "leaving it out" when neither party would yield to the other. He displayed a breadth of view, and fertility of resource in this transaction, which entitles him to the gratitude of all the people who had nothing to gain from another civil war.

The Providence Journal says: "Unfortunately it seems as though the time had not come in which one might insist effectually upon some considerations, which, nevertheless will force themselves into view some day. The excessive taxation of the people by the national government; the silver coinage, and the late decision of the supreme court of the United States in relation to the currency, are not to be ignored by those who wish to take a reasonably long look ahead." These subjects are now more or less obscured by the shadow of the presidential campaign, but it is very dangerous for the party in power to neglect them, even at this time. There is a large and increasing number of voters drawn from the ranks of both parties, but usually styling themselves independent republicans because most of them came from that organization, and because it comes nearest to their ideal of what a party should be, who are only interested in having a good government. The republican party can least afford to drift out of sympathy with these people.

Republican campaign engineers at Washington have been reading up the civil service law, and are wildly excited over a provision therein discovered. In substance it declares that no officer or employe in any department of the government shall be permitted to contribute or collect money for political purposes under a penalty of $5000 fine and three years' imprisonment. The effect of the law is to prohibit congressmen or other federal officials who are members of the national or congressional or any campaign committee, from receiving contributions of money. They may hurrah and make speeches and boom the campaign in every way possible without the handling of money; but at that point the line is drawn. The apparent moral is that political campaigns must get on with less money, or else the office holders who are members of campaign committees must step down and out in favor of strictly private citizens.

The Chicago Tribune calls attention to the fact that the railroads of the United States are almost the only property incumbered by debt. Mercantile stocks are generally paid for, the stocks of grain and provisions in the cities are all paid for, the farmers owe very little money upon their farms, and there is plenty of money in the country. It is only a small proportion of the visible wealth of the people that carries an incumbrance, and if all the big men who now own or are thought to own that property should drop out of existence the property would be still there, equally at the service of the community as before.

The Philadelphia American says every Blaine man at Chicago will oppose the admission of Mr. Mahone's friends, and will demand recognition for the delegation headed by Dezendorf as the true representatives of the republican party in Virginia.

YOUNG MEN IN POLITICS.

It is said that one of the most striking features of the present national house of representatives, as viewed from the galleries, is the unusually large proportion of young men among the members. There is one member but 27 years old, and about fifty of his associates, or nearly a sixth of the whole number of representatives, are under 40 years of age. This characteristic is most marked on the democratic side of the chamber, where many of the graybeards have given way to men who must seem to them mere boys. It is one of the hopeful signs at the south especially that the Bourbon age is yielding to the progressive youth. The democratic party has suffered for years from the dominance of leaders who had come down from a former generation, and who could not comprehend the new conditions. The men who had carried the south into the rebellion generally retained their prominence through the struggle, so that, when the democrats regained control of that section, they made their way back to congress, where not a few of them had sat before the war. They came out of a past era to legislate for a new one, and it is not strange that, with some conspicuous exceptions, they failed to adapt themselves to relations so novel. In a party sense, if in no higher sense, the democrats have continued to suffer, notwithstanding this infusion of new blood, from the power of the old fogies, like Eaton and Randall, who have not the courage to meet the new issues or the ability to learn the lessons of a new regime.

The republicans also are beginning to turn their old "war horses" out to grass, and call young men to the front. John D. Long, the most popular man of his party in Massachusetts, is but 45 years old. Theodore Roosevelt, the leader of republicans in the New York legislature and delegate at large to the Chicago convention, is but 26 years of age. Mayor Low of Brooklyn is not yet 35 years of age. The wealth of these two young men has of course helped them forward, but it takes a good deal besides a million of dollars to make a man sustain himself with credit in the New York legislature, or in the state convention of his party. It takes brains, shrewdness, tact, superior powers of speech and self reliance, but more than all, a sympathy with the cause of the people and a cheerful temper, which wards off the feeling of disgust at the filthy pool of politics. Young Astor had more money than Roosevelt and Low combined, but his money did not endow him with any power to lead or shine in public life. He could draw a check with neatness and dispatch, but he could not inspire, organize or influence the actions of his fellow men. Politics is the highest practical business in this country, and it affords ample scope for the ambition of young men of intelligence and integrity who are not willing to be represented by the subterranean savages of civilization, who eagerly enter politics for what there is in it for themselves, rum or money according as their weaker side is animalism or avarice. It is sometimes mere indolence which keeps men of brains and purity from public life, an unwillingness to add to their regular work its disagreeable duties, and for this reason it is especially inspiriting to hear the breezy voice of a bright young man like Low or Roosevelt saying, "I have a large personal stake in good government and I propose, as a matter of business common sense, to have something to say about the passage or defeat of laws which seriously affect my happiness and welfare as a citizen." The state of New York is fortunate in having two such bright examples of what statesmen ought to be as Seth Low and Theodore Roosevelt.

LONGER LIFE.

It is beyond doubt that people in civilized countries live longer than people did a century or even a half century ago. In England this has been especially demonstrated. A comparison of figures obtained in the years 1838-54 with those of the five years beginning with 1876 and ending with 1880 shows a decline of from 28 to 32 per cent. in males at each five-year period from the age of 5 to that of 25, and a decrease of from 24 to 35 per cent. at each similar period from 5 to 35 among females. The effect has been to raise the mean duration of life among males from 39.9 to 41.9 years, and that among females from 41.9 to 45.3 years. This is a gain of two years in the average length of life among males, and of nearly three and a half years among females. The statistician who made this comparison also shows that by far the larger proportion of the increased duration of human life in England is lived at useful ages, and not as the dependent ages of either childhood or old age.

Sanitary science, so-called, is comparatively new. Its first principles are scarcely as yet mastered. But though sanitary reform is so modern an institution, its effects are already clearly visible. Vital statistics conclusively show that the death rate in civilized countries has been declining of late years, and they show further the decrease of mortality has resulted from the diminished number of deaths due to zymotic disease. It is this class of diseases that can be most clearly traced to poor drainage, bad drinking water, foul air and other such causes which may be largely removed. The efforts of health boards and other organizations for sanitary improvement have been chiefly devoted to the removal of these agencies in producing disease. The relation of cause and effect was never more clearly visible.

It would be hard to exaggerate the improvement in the condition of the people which this decline in the death rate and the lengthening of the period of life imply. They show that the importance of applying common sense principles to the sanitary conditions under which people live cannot easily be overstated. It must be remembered that it is only quite recently that many of these improvements have been put in operation, and that it is only the younger part of the population that has grown up under them. When they have been at work until a full generation has been brought up under their influence it is reasonable to expect that the gain in the duration of life will be even more marked. But even now there is no ground for doubt that the average period of human life is being steadily lengthened.

The ventilation of the scandals which have, unfortunately, become rife in army circles in Washington, is likely to reach a culminating point in the court martial of Judge Advocate General Swaim. It has for some time been apparent that the habits of garrison life, which are not so obnoxious, or at least so harmful, when they are relaxations from active duty in the field, become very injurious when the occupation is almost nominal, as in the detail service in Washington, and that, with the added temptations of city life, they have wrecked many honorable and gallant officers. It is a misfortune to the officers as well as to the service when they retain those coveted appointments, and the purpose of Secretary Lincoln to insist upon rotation and an impartial share of service for all, would have the best effect.

Indications all point to a heavy storm at the July convention at Chicago. Mr. Frank Hurd, member of congress from Ohio, says that the democratic convention will insert a tariff-for-revenue-only plank in the national platform; not only that, but the course pursued by the supporters of the Morrison bill will be formally approved; not only that, but the declaration of the convention will be so emphatic that "nothing will be left for a democrat to do but to indorse it or get out of the party."

Governor Cleveland has set his face toward the future in writing to a prominent democratic member of congress, expressing his regret that the motion to strike out the enacting clause of the Morrison bill was carried, and stating that he considers the attitude of the Randall democrats as a mistaken one, and declaring his opinion that ultimately the tariff reformers will win.

First college man—"Who is that cut in that row-boat?" Second college man—"I never saw him before. Looks like a nice sort of a fellow, though." "Well, yes; he has rather a pleasant face, but—" "But what?" "He has never been to college." "How do you know?" "Know (Great Cæsar!) Why, he can't row."—Philadelphia Call.

Jones—"Have you heard what became of your run-away wife?" Smith—"No, and I don't want to. All I know is that she left a note behind saying that she had determined to go on the stage and knew I would never consent." Jones—"Well, I was looking over a Denver paper the other day and saw a most enthusiastic notice of the success made by a new prima donna, and judging by the description she must be your wife." Smith—"A prima donna! That is impossible. My wife could not sing a note." Jones—"But she may have learned. The paper said she took the town by storm!" Smith—"By storm, eh?" Jones—"Yes." Smith—"That's she."—Evening Call.

NEW BOOKS.

MARGARET FULLER OSSOLI.

By THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON. Vol. VI. in "American Men of Letters" series," edited by CHAS. DUDLEY WARNER. With Steel Portrait. 16mo, gilt top, $1 25.

This book is not a restatement of facts contained in previous works on Margaret Fuller, but is based chiefly on fresh material—letters, diaries and reminiscences of friends. It corrects erroneous views of her character and gives the best account of the rise and of the Transcendental movement in New England.

HANDBOOK OF AMERICAN AUTHORS.

By OSCAR FAY ADAMS, author of "Handbook of English Authors." 16mo, 75 cents.

This book is not an encyclopedia, giving full details respecting the career and writings of those whom it includes; but a handbook, giving the leading facts, and, as far as possible, suggesting sources of fuller information.

For sale by all booksellers. Sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price by the Publishers.

THE CITY.

[illegible]—About two weeks [illegible] looking gentleman [illegible] called a small dwell- [illegible] Third, and began keeping [illegible] whom he said was his [illegible] the young lady was [illegible] physician [illegible] neighborhood [illegible] left the house, and [illegible] the premises, and the [illegible] were politely declined [illegible] is the physician [illegible] away from visits by two [illegible] and his [illegible] lady had [illegible] with incredulity [illegible] something was [illegible] what it was. [illegible] more eager [illegible] raised [illegible] and stared in [illegible] that the young lady had [illegible] informed them that he [illegible] his daughter, that strange [illegible] that he desired [illegible] alone. Unable [illegible] the woman [illegible] to the police. De- [illegible] to look it up, and [illegible] The only thing [illegible] the house was an [illegible] to the young lady. [illegible] The father [illegible] his daughter has [illegible] to the Sound [illegible] last night, and [illegible] ordinary case of [illegible] and led to police [illegible] is in a com- [illegible] to attend to his [illegible]

[illegible] THE OREGON- [illegible] hired out on a [illegible] loaned him several [illegible] and then after [illegible] half an hour, went [illegible] down into another [illegible] All this was [illegible] the same man- [illegible] the Norton house on [illegible] While looking around [illegible] he met a stranger, [illegible] stable at Salem [illegible] the First national bank and [illegible] to draw some [illegible] outside. When he [illegible] only man in the [illegible] was away, and he [illegible] unfortunate. [illegible] and leave for [illegible] Barton thought it [illegible] the man who [illegible] arrival in a [illegible] pocket pro- [illegible] gave it to the [illegible] was going up stairs [illegible] lawyer whose [illegible] would be light [illegible] their trading. [illegible] the First street [illegible] been standing [illegible] and there was a [illegible] As he saw the [illegible] Washington street, a [illegible] his mind. He reported [illegible] swindle [illegible] at last accounts

[illegible]—About 9 o'clock yes- [illegible] the rear of the [illegible] theater, on First [illegible] and Alder, and [illegible] The fire- [illegible] Front street, up a stair- [illegible] soon successful in [illegible] and dressing [illegible] water being [illegible] the theater as [illegible] proprietor of the [illegible] Oakland Home. [illegible] The building is [illegible] was insured for [illegible] Marine Company. It [illegible] Sing & Co., who [illegible] on Front street, [illegible] in the rear, lost by [illegible] having al- [illegible] insured for $400. [illegible] the fire is un- [illegible] in the rear of the [illegible] store, cannot be [illegible] saw it until after [illegible] both places. A China man [illegible] hours before, and a [illegible] in the front part of the [illegible]

[illegible]—The latest artistic speci- [illegible] is that of Stuart's, [illegible] window of Morse, on Wash- [illegible] from the site of the upper [illegible] up the middle Columbia. [illegible] background, in the eddy [illegible] Mr. Stuart's intention [illegible] with him the extensive [illegible] Oregon scenery made by him [illegible] many of them appear in the [illegible] seen on the waters of [illegible] will appear [illegible] visited the [illegible] the Columbia is the natural [illegible] that these pictures of [illegible] life, and not in the least [illegible] exaggeration. The pic- [illegible] the river not as it is, but [illegible] planted the railway, in- [illegible] and the highly as pho- [illegible] other. Just as the [illegible] before the [illegible] and before the little [illegible] to the Gate City, just [illegible] the picture. We bespeak [illegible] a cordial reception at the [illegible]

[illegible]—Colonel Dudley Evans, who [illegible] corner of Sherman and [illegible] about 2 o'clock yester- [illegible] one prowling around [illegible] of the window but could [illegible] down stairs and looked [illegible] nothing wrong went [illegible] he heard some one moving [illegible] the window a w- [illegible] passing around the cor- [illegible] the fellow had been [illegible] enough, Mr. Evans [illegible] revolver. The intruder [illegible] the gate and ran off to the [illegible] showed that a square of [illegible] the cellar door opened and [illegible] From the glimpse Mr. [illegible] is of opinion that he [illegible] been remarked before, it [illegible] to look well to the fasten- ings [illegible] to sleep with one eye open [illegible] shotgun handy.

[illegible]—S. L. W. Duggan, [illegible] man, who, from the [illegible] sprinkled over his dog areas [illegible] in the police court yesterday [illegible] conduct in the [illegible] Bailey. His counsel, Jas. [illegible] the complaint on the ground [illegible] there was another and [illegible] the prisoner then and [illegible] the present. Thus he was [illegible] Mr. Walker read a com- [illegible] Mrs. Bailey, charging him [illegible] His only reply was, [illegible] as it obtained, the [illegible] should for a moment [illegible] offense. This case [illegible] room was found a lot [illegible] brie-a-brac, pistol, [illegible] it was the opinion of [illegible] a little off, mentally.

[illegible]—On Sunday's [illegible] towns and six or eight [illegible] each hoping to be the [illegible] each giving as a [illegible] the best and only [illegible] from the sea leads he that [illegible] two forming a union [illegible] the third running to the [illegible] recent government sur- [illegible] owners of the different [illegible] boats and [illegible] to make [illegible] the results of having [illegible] the [illegible] and safest channel to [illegible] such craze and fine [illegible] property of the man who [illegible] the survey. These reports [illegible] papers and were pub- [illegible] townsite's happy over [illegible] to be the future com- [illegible]

[illegible]—The grass is growing green [illegible] of Oregon, and the importa- [illegible] butter is at an end, for this [illegible] good Oregon butter can be [illegible] pound, and very fair at [illegible] coming to market [illegible] is capable of producing not [illegible] consumption, but con- [illegible] California dealers are now [illegible] twenty cents, to put in brine, [illegible] they will not find it a very [illegible] winter has gone, again [illegible] with eastern butter and [illegible] is good and cheap, [illegible] for winter laid down, [illegible] will be much preferable

[illegible]—The mass meeting [illegible] Portland last night at Good [illegible] the expectations of the [illegible] however, as it was called [illegible] a goodly number of [illegible] considerable enthusiasm was [illegible] the speakers, [illegible] O. THE CLARENDON LOSS.—Zeiber & McKinnon, lessees of the Clarendon hotel, were insured for $4400, equally divided between the following four companies, formerly represented by J. Bachman & Bro.: Lion, North British and Mercantile, Hamburg-Madgeburg, and Connecticut. The policies all bore the same date, May 22, 1883, and were issued for one year, hence would have expired to-morrow. Yesterday the insurance money was garnisheed by the creditors who closed up the house last week. Insurance to the amount of $3500 on the building and furniture was held in Dobinson's agency, $2500 in the State Investment, $1500 in the Western, and $2500 in a foreign company. Considerable baggage belonging to former guests of the hotel was stored on the third floor, and of course is a total loss. About twenty trunks, all apparently filled with clothes, were stored on the lower floor. These were saved in a damaged condition. Marion Wilcox, clerk of the hotel, lost all his personal effects. B. Gaebler, barber in the hotel, lost about $250; insured. The fire was, no doubt, of incendiary origin. Much praise was expressed yesterday for the excellent service of the department and the protection afforded by the new hydrants, which just doubled the department's capacity. Saving a frame building within twelve inches of the burning hotel, and not a dollar's damage to surrounding property, must be considered a good night's work. There is no likelihood that the hotel will be rebuilt soon, and the first thing which eastern passengers this summer will see upon arrival in the city will be the half burned walls. The impression thus created will not be favorable.

HIGH HEELS AND CIVILIZATION.—Several parties were engaged in selecting shoes in a store yesterday when a discussion arose about heels. High heels, low heels and no heels all had their advocates. One of the speakers stated that Indians and Chinese used no heels on their shoes or moccasins and they were more graceful walkers than Caucasians. "Well," said another, "that accounts for their low condition. Heels have placed the white man above these races and I believe that the man who introduces high heels among the slip-shod races of Asia will do more toward elevating them than all the missionaries ever sent there have accomplished. An Indian in blanket and moccasins or a Chinaman in felt shoes, bamboo hat and balloon pantaloons can never amount to much, not even with the aid of religion. Put either of them in a flannel shirt and canvas pantaloons, with a felt hat on his head and good stoga boots with substantial heels on his feet, and he walks the earth another man, and can be utilized, civilized, or, if he is no good, ostracised. Heels are the rock on which we stand; without them we are built upon the sand."

CHINESE ARTIST.—Some months since an artist in soap arrived here and swept through First street like a cyclone, leaving greasy looking and illegible inscriptions and curly-cues on the windows of many of the merchants, thereby replenishing his depleted pockets and forcing on his patrons an urgent necessity for cleaning their windows. The Chinese quarter is now in a furor over a celestial painter of signs and inscriptions in oil. He has lately arrived and has already made his mark. He attracted a crowd yesterday at the corner of Oak and Second by the expertness he displayed in painting a sign on the corner of the Sherlock block, and when he started in on a full length figure of a man he collected a mob of fifty whites and 200 Chinese. So deftly did he wield his brush that in about an hour he had completed a very respectable representation of a Melican man, clad in a reefing jacket and fashionable trousers. He seemed to sling paint with the careless grace and elegance of a colored whitewasher, and his countrymen seemed to greatly admire his artistic skill.

YOUTHFUL VICIOUSNESS.—A most remarkable case of childish cussedness was reported to the police yesterday. On Monday afternoon Freddie Orton, aged 7 years, whose mother lives on Third street, near Mill, seized a 2-year-old child of Mrs. A. Vinson, living in the neighborhood, and carried it under a dwelling house which stood a few feet above the ground. Here he threw the child down, raised its clothes and whipped it with a short, heavy, leather strap, until the body was covered from shoulders to feet with welts. The child will bear the marks of the brutality for several days. No remedy could be applied by the police, as the boy was too young to be arrested and tried. Perhaps he had been treated to a whipping, and just wanted to get even on somebody. It might do, in case the offense is repeated, to have the parents arrested for harboring a vicious — boy.

NEW RECEIVER TAKES CHARGE.—Hon. D. P. Thompson, lately appointed receiver for the Holladay property, by Judge Smith, filed his bond in the sum of $100,000 and entered upon the discharge of his duties yesterday. The office is not a sinecure by any means, nor are the principals with whom the receiver is brought in contact the easy going men who make everything pleasant for such an official. But of one thing they and all concerned may rest assured, which is that a thoroughly clear headed and practical business man has charge of the Holladay property—one who will look after it on strictly business principles, and who cannot be scared or bamboozled or interfered with in the discharge of his duties, any more than his predecessor was.

LODGING HOUSE FOR IMMIGRANTS.—The public spirited citizens of New Tacoma have, through the solicitations of Mr. W. P. Prather, local agent of the Northern Pacific land department, subscribed to a fund for the erection of a lodging house for the use of immigrants in search of homes. It is now in course of erection. The building will be provided with comfortable lodgings for sixty persons, and places for cooking, free of charge, for such reasonable time as may be necessary to select lands. If Tacoma, with limited farm lands open to settlement in its immediate neighborhood, shows such enterprise, why not Portland?

STAGE ROBBER CONVICTED.—The stage robber Stanley, who was arrested near Deep creek, Baker county, a few days since, and taken to Baker City, where he confessed his crime, was sentenced on the 17th to five years in the penitentiary. Harold, his uncle and confederate, is hotly pursued, and is supposed to be making for Snake river. Hopes are entertained that he will be captured. Wells, Fargo & Co. lose nothing by the robbery, as a watch, the only object of value in their box, was found on Stanley. Stanley robbed the stage on the 13th and was sentenced on the 17th. Baker county officials are not slow.

VEHICLES NOT IN DEMAND.—The demand for second hand buggies does not seem to be very brisk at present. Yesterday afternoon a man armed with a hooked stick stood in a vehicle of this kind which to all appearances was not far from final dissolution, and harangued a crowd on Ash street. As a reporter passed he was shouting, "Are you all done? Are you done, Mr. McAtee, at $20? Then down she goes at $25." After disposing of the matter he remarked, "I guess I'll have to adjourn this sale, it is too much like giving things away."

ANOTHER ITEM FURNISHED.—The steamer Tressa May was sold the other day and the money paid into the United States court. The little craft has furnished a great many items for the press, having been seized and sold several times, and it was supposed that when the money was paid in that would be the last of her. But now the case of the Tressa May comes up again, and is set for hearing on the 22d inst. It appears that there was not enough money to "go around," and the court has to make a division of it between the claimants.

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY.—About 5 o'clock last evening B. J. Forbes, clerk of the American Exchange hotel, was arrested on a warrant issued from Justice Davis' court charging him with the robbery of the $2600 package. He immediately furnished bonds and was released. His friends claim that the arrest was made upon the instigation of an alleged detective from California, solely for the purpose of protecting the real criminal, and that the charge has not the least shadow of foundation.

NOT LIBELLOUS, BUT UNTRUE.—We suspect that Tom Jordan hasn't promised the office of chief engineer to so many persons as the Standard has reported. Yesterday it said that he had promised the place to Morgan, Doublebower and others; but Morgan and Doublebower both called at this office last evening to say there wasn't a word of truth in the statement. They don't think of suing the Standard for $25,000 apiece; but they condemn its misstatement all the same.

EXCURSION TO EUROPE.—The European tour proposed for the friends and delegates of the Young Men's Christian Association to the world's conference to be held at Berlin, August 20, promises to be a very inviting one. The party will charter a steamer, and under the direction of an experienced European traveler, make a delightful and inexpensive trip. Further information may be gained of the general secretary of the Portland Association.

THE BAKER CITY BRANCH.—J. B. David of the Oregon Construction Company, is down from "the front." He reports work on the Baker City branch being pushed with energy, the weather favoring construction. Grading will be finished into the Grand Ronde valley by the 10th of June. By the end of next month, there will be nothing to interfere with continuous track laying from Hilgard, the present terminus of the line, to Baker City.

RAILWAY VISITORS.—Mr. T. W. Teasdale, general passenger agent, and Mr. J. F. Clark, traffic manager of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha road, arrived here yesterday afternoon. According to the statement of Mr. A. D. Charlton, general western passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, these gentlemen have come out to paint the town a bright red; then they will visit Seattle and Victoria in the same cause.

INVITATION TO THE PRINTERS' PICNIC.—The following has been sent THE OREGONIAN for publication: You are hereby requested to be present and take part in the picnic to be given by the printers of Salem on Friday, June 6, 1884. Any friends you may invite will also be made welcome. It is proposed to make this one of the occasions never to be forgotten, and we hope every printer in the state will be with us.

EXCURSION TO VANCOUVER.—An excursion under the auspices of the women's guild of St. David's parish, East Portland, will be given to Vancouver on Decoration day (Friday, May 30). The elegant steamer A. A. McCully and a barge have been chartered for the occasion, so that all who desire may have an opportunity to go. Fare for the round trip, 50 cents. Lunch will be served on the boat.

TUG COMPANY ELECTION.—At the annual meeting of the Portland Tugboat Company the following stockholders were chosen directors: H. W. Corbett, W. S. Ladd, D. P. Thompson, Ellis G. Hughes, W. J. Burns, J. R. Cameron and Donald Macleay. Financial affairs of the company are in good shape and another dividend will soon be declared. The directors will elect officers in a day or two.

NATIONAL GRAND ARMY REUNION.—General O. E. Conkin and Captain N. H. Pierce of this city and General H. A. Morrow of Vancouver expect to attend as delegates the reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic, which meets at Minneapolis, July 23. General Sherman is to act as grand marshal of the parade and the United States troops at Fort Snelling will compose part of the procession.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron yesterday to arrive here this afternoon: C. G. Ballentyne, Winnepeg, Manitoba; F. C. Moore, Chicago; Mrs. Hebden, Hamilton Ontario; Mrs. M. O. Wright, Newport.

J. Tyler of San Francisco has leased the Esmond Restaurant, which is at present, closed for extensive repairs, and will be reopened shortly. Mr. T. is an excellent cook and caterer, and his success is assured.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—The young people of Taylor street M. E. church are to give an excursion to Oregon City Friday evening, 10th inst. Tickets 75c.

Prof. F. B. DeLory is the most successful teacher of French and Spanish on the coast. Conversation guaranteed in three months. Address: Esmond Hotel.

A band of 120 head of large, heavy steers arrived here from the Palouse country Monday evening. They are in good condition. A band of 100 head arrived the same evening from the Yakima country and were forwarded to Seattle.

A very pleasant surprise was given Saturday evening to Mr. and Mrs. John Sleight, it being their twentieth wedding anniversary. The presents were very handsome and numerous. The affair was gotten up in good style by their only son Robert.

The case of the City of Carlisle, libeled in the U. S. circuit court by Alfonzo Mendall for $92 due him for wages as seaman, was called yesterday. No one appearing for defendant, judgment was given in favor of libellant for the amount of claim and costs.

Fishermen who visited Oregon City on Sunday did not enjoy very good sport. Messrs. Monnastes, Capen and Berges succeeded in capturing four fish each, and another party one. Several spoons were carried off by big fish, although they can have no possible use for them. The fishing will be better when the water rises.

PERSONAL.

Dr. P. T. Keene arrived yesterday at his old home in Rockland, Massachusetts.

Major E. B. Reese, paymaster U. S. A., has reported at department headquarters, and was assigned to duty in Portland.

Mr. P. Selling, wife and daughter, who have been traveling in Europe for the past fourteen months, are expected to arrive home in about six weeks.

AN OVERSENSITIVE TRAVELER.

ON THE ATLANTIC EXPRESS, May 9.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Permit me through your paper to call the attention of the managers of the O. R. & N. Co. to a desecration permitted if not encouraged by the employes of the company. I refer to the plastering over of trees, rocks etc., at Multnomah falls with flaming posters. The company gives to the passing stranger fifteen minutes in which to view these magnificent falls, and to enjoy the cool breeze created by the descending waters, a treat that would amply repay a trip across the continent. Perhaps it is over-sensitiveness that inspires his growl; but it should be remembered that there are over-sensitive people, and that it is this kind of people that most enjoy the magnificence and beauty of nature, and enjoy them most when unmarred by this vandalism. Remove the desecrations and lash the rascals naked round the world that dare again pollute this beauteous place.

A careful comparison of Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extracts with other flavoring extracts in the market will convince any person that for strength and delicacy of flavor, Dr. Price's is far superior. While the other flavors have a disagreeable, turpentiny taste and odor, Dr. Price's is as natural as the fruits from which they are made.

Inducements

Twenty years' experience in photography has suggested the arrangement of our new gallery. Our operating room is one of the best arranged in the United States, and so perfect in construction that the operator can secure in any kind of weather those beautiful gradations of light and shade so desirable for artistic work, thereby producing the effect of giving the flesh the warm elasticity of life. Don't Invest in Quartz Milling Machinery

Until you have investigated Salmon's Pulverizer, and the Little Giant Crusher. Since these machines have been improved and perfected, quartz of all kinds can be reduced to an impalpable powder at a cost for machinery not to exceed one tenth of what it will cost to do the same amount of work by any other known process. These machines are beyond the experimental stage and are a grand success, destined to revolutionize the milling business and to place the working of quartz within the means of small capital.

REASONS AGAINST THE ELECTION OF GOV. THAYER.

PORTLAND, May 20, 1884.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Some of the republican papers in Oregon, notably the Albany Herald, have seen fit to disparage the legal ability of the gentleman nominated by the late republican convention for the office of supreme judge of this state, and they either tacitly or openly advocate the election of the democratic candidate.

It is insisted by these papers that the office of supreme judge is a non-political one, and that fitness should be the standard in the election of a person to fill the highest judicial position in the state. I admit this to be true, but everything being equal, should not republicans vote for the nominee of the party? I say yes. But I think I can show that the nominee of the republican party is best fitted for the office of supreme judge. And I will endeavor to show why the republican candidate for supreme judge should be elected outside of any political reason.

During the session of the legislative assembly of 1878 the then governor (and now candidate for supreme judge on the democratic ticket) together with Hon John M. Thompson, speaker of the house, prepared a bill amending the land laws of Oregon and especially those sections that related to the listing and sale of the swamp and overflowed lands. The bill so prepared by them was submitted to a number of the members of the legislature before being introduced and was generally approved. This bill became a law and was approved by the people, as it corrected many of the sections of the notorious act of 1870, by which the state was being despoiled of a magnificent grant of land by a few land sharks who had filed on almost all of the swamp lands of the state. Some of them had filed on millions of acres of the best swamp and overflowed lands within her border without ever having paid one dollar into the state treasury. Section 1 of the amended act proposed to remedy this state of affairs and give to the citizens who chose to reclaim these lands the right to do so in tracts of three hundred and twenty and one hundred and sixty acres, and this to actual residents only. Section 5 of the amended act reads as follows: "All applications to purchase any of the lands of this state shall be addressed to the said board of commissioners, and except for tide lands, shall contain a precise description of the land applied for, by legal subdivisions according to the United States surveys, such lands to be in a compact form, which application shall be accompanied by the affidavit of the applicant, taken before some notary public or county clerk, to the effect that he is eighteen years of age, a citizen of the United States, or has declared his intention to become such, that he is a citizen of this state, that he has not directly or indirectly made any previous purchases of land from the state, or any person for him, which together with the land described in the application, except in case such application is for the purchase of any of the lands specified in the third section of this act, by a settler 320 acres, or in case of a non-settler 160 acres, or if the application is for the purchase of any lands specified in the fourth section of this act, 320 acres; that each proposed purchase is for the actual use of the applicant, and not for the purpose of speculation; that no contract or agreement, expressed or implied, has been made for the sale or other disposition of such lands, in case such applicant is permitted to purchase the same. * * * All persons who have made or may hereafter make actual settlement on any of the lands specified in this act shall have the exclusive right to purchase such lands, except timbered lands, following such settlement."

It will be observed that under the provisions of this section no one person could by any means purchase and obtain a title from the state for a greater number of acres than three hundred and twenty; yet it is a well known fact that during the term of the governor who now seeks to be supreme judge of the state, entries were made in quantities of tens of thousands of acres to one person, in direct violation of the very law that he was most instrumental in having enacted by the legislature, and which he himself approved. As I said before, the amended act of 1878 gave great satisfaction to the people of southern and eastern Oregon, where most of the swamp and overflowed lands of the state were situated as its provisions if faithfully carried out by the land commissioner (the governor) would cause large sections of swamp and overflowed land to be reclaimed by actual settlers instead of the land monopoly who had attempted to file on every foot of land that could by any stretch of the imagination be called swamp or overflowed lands.

Judge, however, of the surprise of the people of the state to find when after the enactment of the above quoted amendment to the act of 1870, the commissioner of the state permitted entries to go on of large tracts of many thousands of acres to one person, in utter defiance of the law which he had assisted in having presented to the legislature for favorable action, and which when passed was approved by him. The matter of these entries will be brought to the attention of the next legislature, and no doubt before the subject of illegal entries of swamp and overflowed land is determined, it will go to the supreme court of the state. I submit to the people of Oregon whether the man who violated the law of his own approval while governor of the state is a fit and proper person to act in the capacity of supreme judge on his own acts?

This is an important subject to the people of Oregon especially the southern and eastern portions of the state, where the people have been harassed by swamp land grabbers under the various swamp land acts, and they should well consider the subject before casting their votes for any man who had been connected with them. Should they not rather cast their votes for the republican nominee who has never been in the remotest degree connected with them, and who has no personal interest to subserve if elected to the high office?

As to non partisanship, the republican candidate has been noted for his moderate views in politics. While always a republican he has not been a violent partisan. On the other hand the democratic candidate has been noted for his extreme partisan views since his first arrival in the state. He was a violent pro-slavery, anti-war, partisan extremist in his political views, and has no claims on a single republican in the state for support.

THE EAST SIDE.

NEW WHARF.

Warner & Fulton, of Portland, have received the contract to build an open wharf for W. S. Ladd on his property lying between L and M streets, East Portland, the contract price being $8550. Other bids were: Jos. Smith, $8875; Paquet & Smith, $4000. The wharf will extend from the center of the block to wharf line, being 150 feet deep at M street and 130 feet deep at L street. It will be divided by an opening 33 feet in width for the admission of scows, that portion of the wharf abutting on M street being 48 feet in length, and that portion abutting on L street being 118 feet long. It will be built on rows of piles driven sixteen feet apart running north and south and eight feet apart running east and west. The height will be nineteen feet above low water mark. Operations have already commenced by sawing off the piles driven by the Knott Bros. to accommodate the landing of the ferry boat, and will be continued till completion. The wharf, though a detriment to the interests of the ferry company, will be of decided advantage to the city, and its construction is pretty sure to provoke the competition of adjoining property-owners, the result of which can only be one of benefit to the public.

GAS COMPANY MATTERS.

A regular meeting of the East Portland Gas Light Company occurred Saturday evening last. The death of the late S. B. Story, who was president of the company, leaving that office vacant, Jos. Paquet was elected to succeed him, and A. J. Knott was elected vice-president, an office not hitherto filled. It was decided to extend the mains of the company to Holladay's addition, and also to build another retort as a precaution against accident to that now in use. The work projected will be commenced as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

CITIZENS' INDEPENDENT CLUB.

The Citizens' Independent Club of the west portion of the Second ward of East Portland, met at Mente's hall last evening pursuant to adjournment. H. C. Coley in the chair, and other officers in attendance. Upon motion the resolutions previously adopted were read by the secretary, after which a few new names were added to the roll of membership. Speeches were made by Messrs. Whitfield, Coley, Cook and others, and all agreed in prosecuting a vigorous campaign.

LOYAL REPUBLICAN CLUB.

An extensive session of this club was held at Hall & Street's hall last evening, and arrangements made to hold a rousing rally next week, at which several well known speakers will be present. Several names were added to the roll of membership, after which the club adjourned to meet next Tuesday evening at the same place.

REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING.

A mass meeting of republicans will be held on Saturday evening, May 24, under the auspices of the [illegible] ward republican club at Gunner's hall, in Stephens' addition. Good speakers will be present to address the citizens on the political situation. A general invitation is extended to all.

LECTURE TO-NIGHT.

Mrs. Dr. Owens will deliver her interesting lecture on "Heredity" at the Presbyterian church this evening, under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of East Portland. Musical exercises will precede and follow the lecture, and patrons will receive both enjoyment and valuable information while assisting a worthy object.

CITIZENS' UNION CLUB.

There will be a meeting of the Citizens' Union Club of East Portland at Neppach's hall this evening, at which interesting exercises may be expected. The roll of membership will be presented for signature, and everybody is invited to "come up and jine."

NOTES.

The excavation for the Bailey brick on Fourth commenced yesterday.

M. D. N. Burwell, candidate for constable in Grant precinct, has withdrawn from the contest.

The Powell's valley road is being put in proper repair under the direction of O. P. Lent, road supervisor.

The executive committee of the Fourth of July celebration will hold a meeting at the hall of Pioneer Engine Company at 7:30 this evening, at which a full attendance is requested.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

St. Paul Pioneer Press, May 14.

Vice-President and General Manager Oakes, General Freight Agent Hanna and Chief Clerk Kinman, of the passenger department of the Northern Pacific, returned yesterday from Kansas City and Omaha. Mr Oakes after leaving St. Paul several weeks ago went direct to New York, from whence he went to St Louis and attended the meetings of the Transcontinental association at that place. The meetings were in every way harmonious. The basis for a new money pool was established and a committee appointed to prepare the necessary details consistent upon the formation of such an organization. As far as the Northern Pacific is concerned, said Mr. Oakes, the new pool is simply a reorganization of the old association. The old association to the Northern Pacific was a money pool, as that company received a percentage of the total California business for keeping out of that territory and confining itself to Oregon. With the other roads, however, the association was solely organized for the maintenance of transcontinental rates. The reorganization into a money pool will affect them only, as the Northern Pacific will, for the present at least, continue under the present order of things. The committee appointed has in charge the matter of percentages, and will report at the adjourned meeting to be held in Chicago, May 31. Mr. Oakes said the general impression at the St. Louis meeting was that the committee's report would be favorably received, and the reorganization into a money pool effected. Questioned concerning other matters, Mr. Oakes said there was nothing of moment occurring. He did not believe the report that the Union Pacific had made a formal bid for a lease of the Oregon Railway and Navigation. That organization, he said, was increasing its earnings right along, and was not in the market. He anticipated no trouble between the Oregon road and the Northern Pacific, and says everything will work as harmoniously and as pleasantly in the future as it has in the past. The April earnings of the Northern Pacific, Mr. Oakes said, gave universal satisfaction in the east, and everybody is now satisfied that the road will earn fully as much as was estimated before its completion by Mr. Oakes himself.

AN IMPORTANT AGREEMENT.

While in Omaha Messrs. Hannaford and Kinman concluded an important agreement with freight and passenger agents of the Union Pacific for an interchange of business between the two roads. Beginning June 1 tickets will be sold at Omaha, Kansas City and other stations on the Union Pacific, to all points on the Northern Pacific between Garrison and Wallula Junction, and from those Northern Pacific points to the Union Pacific stations mentioned. The freight traffic from Union Pacific points to Portland and that from Portland to local points on the Union Pacific, will be sent direct via the Utah and Northern, and Northern Pacific, and Oregon Railway and Navigation, instead of via the Central Pacific and San Francisco. Rates will be the same from Omaha as from St. Paul.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY May 20

A rush of orders yesterday created considerable activity this morning The outgoing steamer carried the lightest freight in three months The Gipsy for Gray's Harbor, had a larger freight than on her last trip The Bonita went down river with lumber The Oregon is due at 8 P M with a fair freight and the Beda is in the river with a cargo From Liverpool the Varuna has sailed with a general cargo and comes via Honolulu The small stocks of D sugars in hand and to arrive causes a half cent advance over last quotations. A good quality of Island is in the market The run of salmon in the Sacramento continues light. In the Columbia there is some increase over two weeks ago, but canneries are not generally busy Recent telegraphic reports from Japan report an advance in the price of teas of all grades

Overland receipts include 20 bbls 125 kgs syrup 500 bxs soap, 5 sks nuts, 6 sks dried peaches 70 bxs dried apples, 100 csks bottled beer 455 kgs nails

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past twenty four hours: 2280 ctls wheat 1257 bbls flour, 218 ctls oats 36 sks potatoes 190 lbs wool 446 lbs hides 74 cs eggs 10 pkgs butter, 100 bbls lime Also, 1563 ctls wheat 220 bbls flour 188 ctl millstuff 28 231 lbs wool 10,045 lbs hides 83 sks [illegible] passed from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The market is altogether lifeless Ships are firm in their pretensions and shippers are not seeking new immediate business.

WHEAT—Advices to-day are of a quiet character other than a weaker situation in California With us everything drags and buyers and sellers apart with no early possibility of agreement Probable buyers name $1 45 for valley which is all the situation will stand To day there are 817,483 qrs Pacific coast wheat and 367,776 bbls Pacific coast flour afloat. Of this 126 446 qrs and 113,537 bbls were shipped thence direct Three of our December fleet are yet to be reported, while four of the January sailings have arrived out.

POULTRY—Chickens in good supply with sales at $5@5 50, the outside figure only for very desirable. Other kinds show no change.

EGGS—Less coming in and the market is steady at 2 ½ cents

PROVISIONS—The Chicago markets have reached a very low figure of late To-day a stronger market rules and the quotations indicate concentration of stocks in the hands of firm holders Our market rules steady for good quality but weak for common

SHIPPING NOTES

The Columbia sailed at 12.10 A. M with 363 tons freight

The bark Varuna has sailed from Liverpool for this port, and the Woodlark has sailed from Vladivostock

At noon to-day the Willamette was 14 ft 1 in above low water mark and slowly rising

GAMBLING IN NEW YORK.

The Widow with a System that Seems to Work Well—Queen Bets.

Cincinnati Enquirer

Men who have traveled extensively assert that no city in the world has as many ardent gamblers as New York I know of a boarding house on Thirty seventh street in which the inmates are given up almost entirely to gambling It is a big establishment—two houses joined in one—and the boarders are well-to-do and highly respectable people The landlady charges her guests exorbitantly, and the house is run on a liberal and pretentious plan About two years ago a lady took a front room on the second floor and moved in with a lot of steamer trunks and luggage. She was an American but she had been traveling in Europe for two years and had imbibed the passion for gambling She had played roulette and baccarat in Paris, and come off a very comfortable winner On the way back on the steamer, while sitting on the after deck in the moonlight she conceived a system for playing roulette. The lady cogitated over her scheme all the way over When she was thoroughly settled in her room in the boarding house she figured out her system and became convinced that it was accurate

One night a queer looking box came to the house and was taken to her room. It was a roulette wheel She kept the matter quiet for some time but a $15-a-week clerk in the hall bedroom next her lay awake nights and heard the buzz and wondered what in thunder it was for a week, and then suddenly realized that it was a roulette table Jumped out of bed put his ear to the keyhole and heard the buzzing up to 4 o clock in the morning The pretty little widow was experimenting on her system. He cultivated her acquaintance and the week after that he was in her room every night until the same hours of the morning swinging the wheel and eagerly watching the result. He was just as enthusiastic a gambler as she and had played constantly on his system At the end of two weeks the clerk was several hundred dollars the winner Then he introduced one of the other boarders, and at the end of six months the whole house was taking a crack at the wheel Of course there was an effort to keep it more or less quiet, and the game was not alluded to at the table But new boarders were soon initiated into the game to take the places of those who dropped out The widow had not gone back to Monte Carlo yet Why should she when she is a heavy winner at home?

One of the most amusing cases of gambling that I ever saw was in Broad street It was about 4 o clock one summer afternoon and there were several hundred brokers wandering about in front of the stock exchange and talking about the day It had been a particularly stormy day and the men were idly chatting in the shade, when an old cab-horse started from New street up Broad to the corner of Wall street This block of Broad street is a bit of a hill The cab man who was sitting on a fire-plug on the upper corner whistled to his horse which was standing in the shade a block below The horse wandered up ten or fifteen feet and stopped The cabby whistled again The horse struggled up fifteen or twenty feet more By easy stages he finally arrived at the top of the hill The performance amused the brokers who yelled to the horse to stop and go on The animal would obey them spasmodically but in the end he heeded his master's whistle and went on

One of the most popular young brokers caught an idea and rushing along he explained it rapidly to the boys Then he took his hat, collected $2 from each of them explained the matter to the driver and led the old cab-horse back to the lower corner turned him around and placed him in a position to travel up the hill along the curb again The brokers then ranged themselves along the curbstone at any distance apart that suited their fancy, and the leader of the scheme got a piece of chalk from one of the bucket-shops and marked out lines along the curbstone at the distance of about two feet apart. Each of the brokers chose one of those lines and stood by it The pool which amounted to nearly $200, was to go to the man near whose chalk mark the hub of the rear wheel of the cab stopped the hub to remain opposite the chalk mark for thirty seconds by the watch of an official timekeeper The cabman was to receive $10 for whistling to the best of his ability, and if the horse got to the top of the block without stopping he was to renew the trial until too weary to go the length of the block if it kept him awake all night

Here was the spectacle of one hundred men fully three-quarters of them of dignified appearance and well dressed and prosperous looking and many of them apparently sedate ranged along the curbstone shouting wildly at each other and gesticulating violently toward the horse The timekeeper sat on the roof of the cab, with his hat on the back of his head, a cigar in his mouth and a watch in his hand The brokers were permitted to yell at the beast but under no circumstances to touch him The cabman whistled The brokers yelled Whoa! with a force that brought the people from the neighboring street to learn the nature of the row The horse stood stock still The cabby whistled Another terrific yell from the brokers Then with a jump the horse started on a dead gallop up the hill spilled the timekeeper from the top of the cab and went around the corner of Wall street with a howling mob of two hundred men and boys after him It was a roasting hot day, and the dust was choking Still the brokers kept on it The beast was brought back and started again After two more trials he ambled nimbly up the hill and then suddenly and stubbornly stopped and couldn't be made to move by the wildest shouts of the men about him He staid more than half a minute in this place and a dispute arose between two brokers as to who had won the $200 because the hub had stopped between their two chalk marks They flipped a quarter and the winner took a crowd of men into Delmonico's opened a case or two of wine and gave the cab driver $10 to take him home

If you are suffering from poor health or languishing on a bed of sickness take cheer if you are simply ailing or if you feel weak and dispirited without clearly knowing why Hop Bitters will surely cure you

If you are a minister and have overtaxed yourself with your pastoral duties or a mother worn out with care and work or a man of business or laborer weakened by the strain of your everyday duties or a man of letters toiling over your midnight work Hop Bitters will surely strengthen you

If you are suffering from over eating or drinking any indiscretion or dissipation or are young and growing too fast as is often the case

Or if you are in the workshop on the farm at the desk anywhere and feel that your system needs cleansing toning or stimulating without intoxicating if you are old blood thin and impure pulse feeble nerves unsteady faculties waning Hop Bitters is what you need to give you new life health and vigor

If you are costive or dyspeptic or suffering from any other of the numerous diseases of the stomach or bowels it is your own fault if you remain ill

If you are wasting away with any form of Kidney disease stop tempting death this moment and turn for a cure to Hop Bitters.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness Nervousness you will find a Balm in Gilead in Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter or a resident of a miasmatic district, barricade your system against the scourge of all countries—malaria epidemic bilious and intermittent fevers—by the use of Hop Bitters

That poor bedridden invalid wife sister mother or daughter can be made the picture of health by a few bottles of Hop Bitters costing but a trifle

The Emperor Louis Napoleon smoked only the finest cigars the world could produce. Prof Horsford says the Emperor's cigars were made specially for him in Havana from leaf tobacco grown in the Golden Belt of North Carolina, this being the finest leaf grown. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is made from the same leaf used in the Emperor's cigars, is absolutely pure and is unquestionably the best tobacco ever offered.

Thackeray's gifted daughter Anne in her sketch of Alfred Tennyson in Harper's Monthly tells of her visit to the great poet. She found him smoking Blackwell's Bull Durham tobacco sent him by Hon James Russell Lowell, American Minister to the Court of St James

In these days of adulteration, it is a comfort to smokers to know that the Bull Durham brand is absolutely pure, and made from the best tobacco the world produces.

Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is the best and purest made All dealers have it. None genuine without the trade-mark of the Bull

POISON

In the blood is apt to show itself in the Spring, and nature should by all means be assisted in throwing it off Swift's Specific does this effectively It is a purely vegetable non poisonous remedy which helps nature to force all the poison or taint out through the pores of the skin.

Mr Robert A Easley of Dickson Tenn. writes, under date March 16 '84 I had chills and fever followed by rheumatism for three years so that I was not able to attend to my business, had tried almost every kind of medicine and found no relief A friend recommended Swift's Specific. I tried one bottle and my health began to improve I continued until I had taken six bottles and it has set me on my feet, as sound and well as ever I recommend it to all similarly afflicted.

Letters from twenty three (23) of the leading retail druggists of Atlanta say under date March 24 1884 We sell more of Swift's Specific than any other one remedy and three to ten times as much as any other blood medicine We sell it to all classes, and many of the best families use it as a general health tonic.

I am sure that Swift's Specific saved my life. I was terribly poisoned with malaria and was given up to die. Swift's Specific relieved me promptly and entirely I think it is the greatest remedy of the age.

C. G SPENCER,
Sup't Gas Works, Rome Ga.

I have known and used Swift's Specific for more than twenty years and have seen more wonderful results from its use than from any remedy in or out of the Pharmacopœia. It is a certain and safe antidote to all sorts of Blood Poison
